

Washington to Answer Kremlin Attacks Rocky Draft for Vice-President Is Proposed

Refusal Is Doubted By Powell Case Hails His Stand on Issues

CONCORD, N. H. (AP) — The Republican national convention leadership should draft Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for vice president despite the New York governor's insistence he would refuse the position, Gov. Wesley Powell says.

Powell called Tuesday for leaders of the convention to "stop dilly-dallying" and start a move to draft Rockefeller as Vice President Richard M. Nixon's running mate.

Powell Confident
"If Mr. Rockefeller were nominated for vice president by acclaim, how could a man as interested in his country as he is refuse to accept such service?" The New Hampshire governor asked.

Rockefeller repeatedly has said he would refuse the vice presidential nomination.
Meanwhile, in Washington, Rockefeller's statement to the Republican platform drafters in Chicago was termed by Sen. Clifford D. Case (R-N.J.) as an affirmative approach to the nation's problems.

Said Case:

Calls Party Fortunate
"Our party is fortunate that a man who does not expect to be its nominee has, nonetheless, made this essential contribution to the deliberations of our convention."

"His statement," is in line with the affirmative approach which many of us have long maintained the Republican Party must take."

Powell said he expects that Rockefeller's name will be proposed to the convention for the presidential nomination. "He, himself, has made this apparent," Powell told newsmen.

Rockefeller withdrew from the race for the presidential nomination but is holding himself available for a draft.

Rockefeller admits publicly that most of the delegates to the convention are pledged publicly to Nixon.

Paper Favors Draft
Meanwhile, the St. Louis Post Dispatch said editorially Tuesday that Rockefeller is the best man the Republican party could nominate for president and "ought to be drafted."

The newspaper, which endorsed Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic nomination said Rockefeller has "displayed a mastery of grasp of foreign and domestic problems confronting this country, an enlightened and liberal approach to them, a spirit of independence and a sense of confidence that would make him both a first-rate candidate and a first-rate president."

Questions Decisions
The newspaper, which describes itself as politically independent, said, however, that all signs indicate Rockefeller will not be drafted and asked:

"How does it happen that, at an hour of supreme crisis for our position in the world, both parties are evidently set on rejecting their best qualified nominees in favor of men who have the support of party leaders for other reasons than their presidential qualifications?"

Saugerties C of C Favors Business Section Proposal

A proposal for the orderly planning of the Saugerties Village business district with sufficient adjacent lands for future expansion around existing parking areas was approved by Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce at its Tuesday night meeting in the Flamingo Restaurant.

The plan with areas outlined on a village map, and a list of available properties which the owners have offered for sale was presented by Raymond Ruby, treasurer and chairman of the Chamber planning committee.

Board to Get Proposal

The proposal will be presented to the Saugerties Village Board at its next regular meeting as a suggestion from the Chamber regarding the needs of the business district for orderly and gradual expansion. The Chamber will suggest that the plan be incorporated into the existing zoning ordinance.

2 Held for Burglary After 90 MPH Chase

An alert state trooper spied a stolen car parked in front of a tavern near Gardiner early this morning and gave chase as it sped away at speeds reaching 90 MPH, until the vehicle turned over on a curve in the village of New Paltz.

Arrested were:
James Mason, 22, 16 West Strand, driver of the 1954 blue sedan.

Kingston Speeder Fined $100, Gets 30 Days in Jail

Accused of driving a car 100 miles an hour on Route 9, Town of Rhinebeck on the night of July 6, Ronald Vincent Perry, 21, a taxi driver, of 95 DeWitt Street, Kingston, pleaded guilty Tuesday before Justice of the Peace Clarence Traver and was fined $100 or 100 days in jail, and 30 days in the Dutchess County jail.

Judge Traver said he imposed the fine at the rate of one dollar a mile. He said Perry expects to pay the fine today or Thursday. But, he must serve the 30 days in jail.

According to the judge, State Police Corporal John McCarthy chased the car driven by Perry north on Route 9 for a distance of two miles before the vehicle was overtaken. He said the trooper traveled at a speed of about 108 miles an hour during the chase.

A check made of the speedometer in the trooper's car at Albany showed it was accurate, the judge said. The vehicle driven by Perry at the time the summons was issued, was owned by his sister, and accompanying Perry at the time were five children, the judge said.

34 INJURED IN TRAIN DERAILMENT—Fourteen cars of the Milwaukee Road passenger train Hiawatha were derailed in St. Paul, Minn., when the train struck a semi-trailer truck at an unmarked crossing. Thirty-four persons were reported injured, none seriously. The truck driver, who had "a feeling of death as the train came at me," was unscratched. (NEA Telephoto)

Two Popes Indicted Over Funds Diversion Charged Of $375,000 Sum

Anthony Pope, president of the Colonial Sand and Stone Company, Inc., and his brother Fortune Pope, publisher of the Italian-language newspaper "Il Progresso," were accused in a Federal conspiracy indictment Tuesday of diverting upwards of $375,000 from Colonial and its stockholders for their own "personal benefit and enrichment."

The brothers are accused of using seven other corporations which they own and control as channels for the diversion of funds, and then making false and misleading reporting statements in concealing the facts.

Colonial Sand and Stone Co., Inc., is conducting operations in Kingston on North Street at Steep Rocks, near the site of Hudson Cement Company, reported to be one of the Pope affiliates.

Face 12 Counts

The 12-count Federal indictment charges the Pope brothers with conspiracy to violate the United States securities laws by using the Colonial firm and equipment to deliver rock salt supposedly for the benefit of Colonial, but actually for their own secret profit. Fortune Pope is executive vice-president of Colonial. A current investigation is being conducted in New York City over delivery of rock salt to the city.

Federal officials said the Pope brothers would appear for arraignment in U. S. District Court on July 27.

Both brothers are active in New York Democratic politics.

13 Camels Come From Australia To Catskill Farm

Thirteen Arabian camels, unwanted in Australia, will have a place at the Catskill Game Farm 18 miles from here off Route 32.

The herd arrived in New York City Tuesday aboard the Pioneer Tide. The trip took 71 days from Adelaide.

Gerry Hargrave, their keeper, said camels are a nuisance in Australia, where they run wild and multiply. They've lost their place as beasts of burden since the motor vehicle.

"The Afghans brought camels to Australia in 1840 or 1850, about the time of the gold rush," Hargrave pointed out.

"They were used on sheep and cattle stations in the outback. There was a big camel train in those days—they used to call it the Ghan. I think—which was used to transport wool from the sheep stations to the ports."

When trucks were introduced, camel owners turned their beasts loose. About 10 years ago they became a regular plague, their number having increased.

The trouble with camels, Hargrave said, is that they are fence breakers. After they crash through, sheep and cattle get out.

There are about 1,000 wild (Continued on Page 10, Col. 8)

Miss New York Has Wardrobe From Wonderly Store

For the past two days Miss Susan Jane Talbert, 19-year-old Ogdensburg beauty who won the title of "Miss New York State" in the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce contest on July 9, has been in New York City selecting clothing in which she will appear at the "Miss America Pageant" at Atlantic City, N. J., in September.

The complete outfits in which "Miss New York State" will appear are being presented by The Wonderly Company of Kingston, and were selected from among the displays at the New York City wholesale houses from which The Wonderly Company purchases.

"Miss New York State," who also holds the title of "Miss Dunkirk-Fredonia," where she is attending Fredonia College, was accompanied by her mother on the New York trip to select her wardrobe. Local Marines Are Bidding for 1962 National Parley

A bid to bring the National Marine Corps League Convention to Kingston in 1962 will be made "within the next few days," Robert Heaney, Ulster Detachment commandant revealed today.

Commandant Heaney said "the great honor" has been offered and John Ray Mayone, convention chairman, said he will soon officially extend the invitation.

Mayone said he "fully realizes the magnitude of this task, but the honor is a great one for the organization and the city." Some 1,500 marines, auxiliary, wives (Continued on Page 10, Col. 6)

Gordon Elected 7th Time as Board Head

Philip Gordon of Phoenicia was elected president of the Ontario Central School District Board of Education for his seventh consecutive term at last night's annual reorganization meeting.

Gordon, a Phoenicia pharmacist who recently won his first election campaign, was the unanimous choice of the board. He is the only member of the original central district board still active. In this year's school elections he was opposed for office for the first time, but defeated George F. McNamara, 788 to 440.

Gordon's name was proposed by trustee John Haggerty and seconded by trustee Harry Allen. Gordon thanked the board for their continued confidence in him and expressed the hope that he could merit that confidence once again.

Knight Vice President

Acting in accordance with new state education laws, the board created the post of vice president and elected Arthur P. Knight of West Hurley. Knight was placed in nomination by trustee Edward West and seconded by trustee Marie Klein and was unanimously elected.

George D. Finigan was elected district clerk.

Other appointments made by the board:

Janie Silkworth of Olive Bridge, district treasurer for the 1960-61 school year at a salary of $1200.

The firm of Connelly and Connelly, Esqs., Kingston, was appointed school district attorney at an annual fee of $2400.

Old Recreation Hall Fire Today Called Suspicious

Fire of suspicious origin partially destroyed a former recreation hall on a farm on the Blue Mountain-Quarryville Road, Town of Saugerties, early this morning.

The one-story frame hall, about 60 feet long and 35 feet wide, was formerly used for recreation in conjunction with a summer boarding house. It is located on the property of James Poulakis.

It was reported that the hall, which had not been in use for several years, contained a large room and kitchen. It was furnished.

Ike Gives Word for Rebuttals Hard and Fast Policy Advocated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported today to be all for a policy of American officials hitting back hard and fast at Kremlin propaganda onslaughts against the United States.

Word from the summer White House at Newport, R.I., was that the President had given a personal go-ahead on this at a conference there Tuesday with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and other key foreign policy advisers.

Some Through U.N.

Much of the hitting back reportedly will be done through the United Nations, where U.S. and Soviet delegates have been sparring verbally this week over the Cuban situation.

But Herter made it apparent on leaving the Newport meeting that not all of the return fire will originate in the U.N.

He promptly accused the Soviet Union of waging "a very provocative type" of an anti-American campaign. Asked by newsmen to speculate on the motives for the Soviet attitude, he said: "We take this attitude seriously and regard it as one we should give serious consideration to."

Rejects Congo Demand

Further evidence of the policy of replying to Soviet charges came late Tuesday when the State Department rejected a Soviet demand made only a few hours earlier that 20 armed Americans be withdrawn from the Congo.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, termed the Moscow demand a "desperate and almost frantic effort" to obstruct U.N. efforts to restore order in the riot-torn Congo. He said the Americans were there to help the U.N. land troops from other countries as well as supplies for U.N. units.

May Be Covering Up

As examples of the "provocative" Soviet campaign since the breakup of the May summit conference, Herter listed for newsmen the recent Soviet downing of the U.S. RB47 plane, recent statements by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev on the Berlin situation, Soviet attitudes on Cuba and the Congo, and Moscow's breakdown of the Geneva disarmament talks.

Asked if Khrushchev might be rattling sabers to cover up troubles at home, Herter declined a yes or no answer. But he said it was "a factor that has to be considered."

Central New York Hit by Storm, Has Fires and Floods

TROY, N. Y. (AP) — A fast-moving storm battered a narrow path from Central New York eastward Tuesday night, leaving lightning-caused fires, minor flooding and broken trees in its wake.

A woman was injured by a lightning bolt in Troy.

Streets were flooded in Syracuse and Utica. Hail rattled down on some areas. Many trees were ripped down by the winds and numerous power and telephone lines were knocked out.

Damage estimates totaled $60,000.

The storm lashed Syracuse for 10 minutes and left behind at least 25 fallen electric lines.

Lightning struck the home of Clarence E. Green in East Syracuse and set it afire. Firemen estimated damage to the one-story building at $40,000.

Lightning also set fire to a barn on the farm of Robert Scherstone at Lowell, near Rome. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

A three-story apartment building in the Utica suburb of Yorkville also was struck by lightning. Part of the chimney toppled and the roof was damaged.

At Troy, Mrs. Ann Coates was injured when lightning struck a tree on the farm of Robert Scherstone at Lowell, near Rome. Damage was estimated at $20,000.

Top Strategists Called by Kennedy About Campaign

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy called top strategists to his vacation home here today to plan major steps in the campaign he hopes will take him to the White House. He had to cut into his "complete rest" vacation to do it.

The conference will cover such subjects as when and where to launch his election campaign and a coast-to-coast drive to register every potential voter with Democratic leanings.

Kennedy announced Tuesday night the appointment of Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. (D-N.J.) as director of the National Registration Committee. Chief among the strategy group, of course, is Kennedy's campaign manager brother Robert, already on the scene. He directed the months-long drive through the presidential primaries which brought Kennedy to Los Angeles as the front runner and made him first-ballot winner of the Democratic nomination.

With them will be James Rowe, a Washington lawyer who was once an aide to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

REFUGEES FROM CONGO — Refugees from the Congo, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Juongst, of Croton Falls, N. Y., and their two children, Stuart, 2, and Eric, 3½, arrive in New York. They were among 12 adults and 14 children flown in from Amsterdam and Copenhagen. The adults, all attached to the American Presbyterian Congo Mission, said they had not been mistreated in the Congo. Fight Against Polio Is Only Half Won as Season Begins

By JERRY BENNETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The fight against polio is only half won as the 1960 season begins.

Almost 90 million of the nation's 180 million persons still need vaccinations, say officials of the U. S. Public Health Service. Another 20 million have received only one or two of the four recommended Salk injections.

Since January, polio has struck more than 450 Americans, crippling 320. And PHS doctors say the toll will keep climbing until everyone gets vaccinated.

Surgeon General Leroy Burney is particularly worried about unvaccinated children under five. He explains that this age group accounted for 43 per cent of last year's 8,577 polio cases of which 5,694 were paralytic.

"There are still 8.5 million children under five who have not completed the required number of shots," he warns. "Nineteen per cent of them have had no vaccine at all. These young and vulnerable children still lack optimum protection against a disease that may cripple them for life."

PHS statisticians recently designed a simplified survey system to locate within four days the number of unvaccinated persons in a community. They are now teaching the system to state and city health officials throughout the nation.

The polling technique has an important psychological effect, one health official explains.

"The majority of our unvaccinated persons live in poor areas of town," he explains. "Of course, these areas are always easy to spot. But to have documented proof that there are so many hundred unvaccinated people in a neighborhood usually intensifies a vaccination drive."

As polio protection campaigns get going throughout the country, scientists are still working to improve the vaccine. Merck Sharp and Dohme Research Laboratories recently announced development of a highly purified killed virus vaccine which requires only two shots given a month apart for immunity. The PHS has approved the first batches for distribution to high polio rate areas in the South and Southwest.

Immunity with the Salk killed virus vaccine, used since 1955, requires a minimum of three shots with a fourth recommended for extra protection. The first two shots are given two to six weeks apart followed by another injection seven months later. The fourth shot is given a year after the third.

Tests also are underway on three live virus vaccines that are reported to provide greater and faster immunity than the killed virus types. Live vaccines, which can be taken by mouth, have been used extensively in Russia, Latin America, Africa and several European countries. Before PHS experts license live vaccines for use in the U.S., they want to be sure that the weakened viruses can't regain their strength and become dangerous.

Trial live virus vaccination programs are now underway in Dade County, Fla., Waco, Tex., Cincinnati, Ohio, Minneapolis, Minn. and New Haven, Conn. PHS officials believe it will be at least a year before they can guarantee the vaccines' safety and effectiveness.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

Editor's Note — Putting together a TV special, Debbie Reynolds discovers, is something of a challenge, especially since it's her first professional dancing chore in quite a while. She tells about it in the following guest column, one of a series during AP TV-radio writer Cynthia Lowry's vacation.

By DEBBIE REYNOLDS
Written For The Associated Press

The daring young man on the flying trapeze had an easier time of it, I think, than a daring young woman who takes her first big plunge into television.

It has been exciting and exhilarating, rehearsing and putting together a full-hour special, as I'm doing for ABC-TV. This is the first of three for the network on a one-a-year basis.

Television is a new challenge and adventure for me. It is the realization of something I've planned for a long time and presents me with the opportunity of making new friends.

The new experience has not been without some problems and minor frustrations, such as are apt to arise in any creative venture. But it's also been great fun.

Bill Collieran's the active producer-director for the hour's entertainment, we hope! The title of our show is "A Date With Debbie," and we hit the air Thursday, Oct. 27.

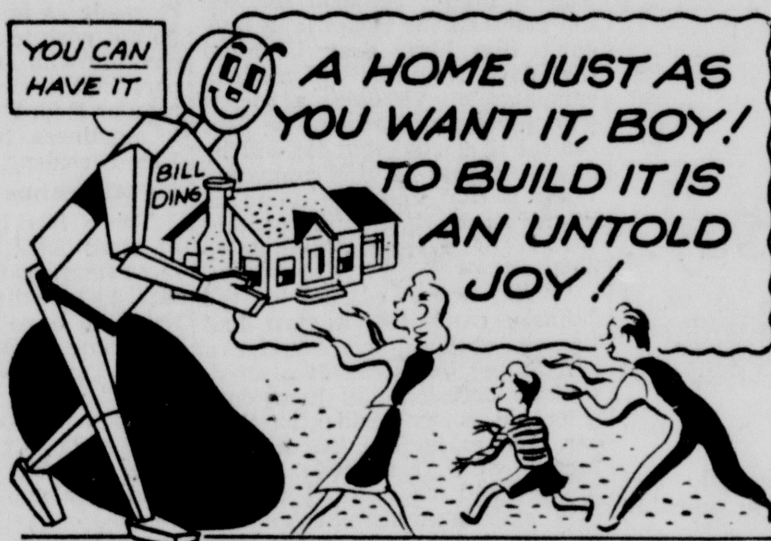

If will-to-do combined with enthusiasm is the criterion, the 60 minutes should be a real fun show. The zest shown by all concerned continually amazes me.

Take those youngsters Walter Brennan and Charlie Ruggles, for instance. Our writers, Carl Reiner and Joe Stein, wonderfully talented fellows, developed the idea of getting them to join me in a dance routine.

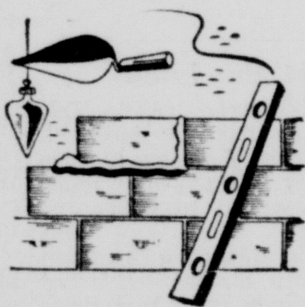

Both old-timers went for the concept with glee, but they had previous commitments. It took some fantastic rearranging to get them together, but they were insistent. In fact, they both spent three days taking dancing lessons before our rehearsals started.

The show will mark the first time in more than three years that I have done any professional dancing, and I'm in training something like an Olympic athlete. I have a rugged schedule of limbering-up exercises every morning before I sit down to breakfast.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 20, 1960

TIME BOMB IN CHINA

It is widely believed, and not without cause, that once the government of Communist China acquires nuclear weapons the civilized world will be perilously near the beginning of the end. The statements and attitudes of Red Chinese leaders give little hope that they would be reasonable or responsible custodians of such terrible weapons for mass destruction.

In view of this, particular attention must be accorded a prediction by the Hong Kong bureau chief of the Associated Press that these weapons will be available to Peiping within two years and maybe sooner. The presumption is that nuclear bombs and the means of delivering them would have to come from the Soviet arsenal. Strong pressure apparently is being brought to bear on Moscow for a "lend-lease" arrangement, and the Kremlin may not be able to put off Mao much longer.

Spokesmen for the Peiping regime have publicly stated that they do not regard nuclear war as "unthinkable" because they think China could sacrifice a few hundred million of her people and still emerge from the war in a position of relative strength. They envision such a war as a means of leveling Western civilization, upon whose ruins the new Communist world could then be erected.

The West cannot shrug off this threat. We must face the possibility that Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai may soon be able to brandish nuclear weapons. But how should the West react as it contemplates the world's biggest bully with such a club in his hands? One thing is certain: there is no easy solution.

It has been proposed that the only way to tie Red China's hands, were she to get the bomb, would be to include her in disarmament negotiations. That may be the only avenue of escape from a terrible dilemma.

Castro cancels a talk because of a "slight infection" in one lung. And his government is suffering from a slight infection and redness, also.

ISSUES ARE PARAMOUNT

Neither the red hot Democrats nor the red hot Republicans will determine who is to occupy the White House during the next four years. "My party, right or wrong," will be the slogan of victory. The hard core of independent voters, coupled with those who vacillate between the two major parties, will play the most decisive role at the polls in November.

That is something to bear in mind when reflecting on the possible outcome of the election. Though politicians are keenly mindful of this factor, it tends to subside into the background during the convention whoop-de-do. It will emerge again when the campaigns get rolling.

The fact that many voters are not die-hard partisans inclines presidential candidates to try to be all things to all men. That is a drawback. But at the same time the presence of the independents helps to the main issues. Candidates know that they cannot win by more enunciation of a party line acceptable to those of their own political faith. In this there is, at least potentially, a great advantage.

What we have said should not be construed as an attack on the principle of party responsibility. It should be taken, rather, as a plea for campaigns directed at sober, penetrating debate of great issues rather than at partisan tub-thumping. Both practical politics and the magnitude of the national challenge argue the wisdom of such campaigns.

Khrushchev dismisses a piece of sculpture over an Austrian hydro-electric dam as "nonsense." Kikita Knows as much about art as he does about diplomacy.

Senator Johnson tosses his hat into the ring. The Texan is a real political pro. He's strongly pro-Johnson.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
ADLAI STEVENSON

What Adlai Stevenson tried to do at the Democratic Convention, Nelson Rockefeller may try at the Republican Convention. The results will be about the same.

Let us look at the Stevenson Blitz. First of all, a Hollywood committee, of whom the playwright and producer Dore Schary was one, organized the most motley crew of beatniks, no-goodniks, do-goodniks findable in these United States. They were photographed fore and aft and were reported upon during the Convention. Their ticket-stealing technique had been worked in the Republican Convention in Philadelphia which nominated Wendell Wilkie. At that Convention, the followers of Wilkie provided themselves with a duplicate set of tickets and rushed the convention hall so that delegates sometimes found their seats occupied. The galleries were filled by boys and girls who were having a wonderful time and whose expenses were paid for them to shout in unison, "We want Wilkie."

In Los Angeles, apparently, there was no duplicate set of tickets but the gag was worked in parties of 30. That is, 30 had tickets for the balcony and got in. One collected 29 tickets, went out, distributed the 29 tickets and then a new group of 30 came in. Thus 59 got in on 30 tickets. Multiply this often enough and you have a packed hall. Stevenson broke every tradition of any convention by attending on the floor on the second night. This was justified on the ground that he was a delegate—as were other candidates; and secondly that he had never announced his candidacy. He walked onto the floor, accompanied by an organized phalanx of newsmen, photographers, etc., while the platform was being discussed, demonstrating a total disregard for others. His followers interrupted to cheer, stopped the business of the convention until he appeared on the platform and then he thanked everybody. It was shoddy business and made no impression on the delegates as subsequent events showed.

His peculiarly attired gang snake-danced on the outside of the convention hall, giving the appearance of a great popular demand for Adlai Stevenson. Television established that these young and often peculiar people were well organized, were directed and disciplined. Whether Adlai Stevenson knew about it, no one can tell, but when his crowd got into the convention hall, they acted like hoodlums. To restore some order to the Convention, the lights were put out, a very dangerous thing to do, and finally Mrs. Roosevelt shrieked at them to clear the aisles, which they did.

Prior to all this, Senator Monroney, an active Stevenson manager, estimated that Stevenson had 77 votes. The Blitz was to cause many of the delegates to change their votes and to forsake their pledges. When it looked very bad, Senator Lehman, who was a delegate, proposed that the balloting be postponed and seemed to give the impression that Senators Johnson and Symington also wanted the balloting postponed. It turned out that Senator Lehman was all alone in this strategy.

When the balloting started, it was immediately obvious that the attempted Stevenson Blitz did not influence the delegates at all. Mrs. Roosevelt's intervention in the affairs of the Convention made no votes.

The sort of Blitz that the Hollywood committee for Stevenson tried to put over is no longer possible. Conventions are too large and too well organized for sudden excitement to affect votes.

Let us take New York as an example. Mrs. Roosevelt and Senator Lehman waged a long campaign to destroy Carmine DeSapio so that they might control the New York delegation for Stevenson. Representative Charles Buckley of the Bronx supported Kennedy. DeSapio was neutral because it was his desire to make a deal to get the Vice Presidency for Mayor Robert Wagner. For over a year, the various forces played their hands. When the show-down came, Kennedy's vote was practically the whole New York delegation with a smattering for Johnson and Stevenson. But this is to be noted. Before the New York delegation left for Los Angeles, the vote was precisely what it turned out to be at the Convention. There was not one change.

Tuberculin-Type Allergies
Are Hard to Track Down

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The other day we were talking about histamine-type allergies. They make your skin itch and your face break out.

There is another allergy, sneakier and much more harmful to hypersensitive persons, many of whom have requested information about mysterious diseases that seem to come from nowhere, respond poorly or irregularly to treatment and on occasion cause invalidism or even death.

This reaction is called "tuberculin-type." But rarely has it anything to do with a TB infection. In fact, it rarely has anything to do with any sort of infection. And it does not require the sufferer to be isolated to prevent transmission of the disease.

Let me give you an example. Perhaps then you'll have a better understanding of how these tuberculin-type allergies develop and what you can do to prevent them or to help your doctor relieve the conditions you've inquired about. Like the butterfly disease (lupus erythematosus), Guillain-Barre Disease, certain blood diseases (aplastic or hemolytic anemias, agranulocytosis, thrombocytopenic purpura), rheumatoid or deforming arthritis, certain eye diseases (uveitis, iritis), peeling of the outer skin (exfoliative dermatitis) and others too numerous to mention.

And now, the example:
The patient was a middle-aged woman who had her appendix removed many years before when it was the custom to apply sulfa powder to the stump of the infected organ.

After not feeling well for a week or so, she took her temperature and was surprised to find it almost 102 degrees.

Her doctor thought she might have gripe and gave her a prescription for a "bug-killer."

After a few doses, she felt worse and began a series of chills with temperatures as high as 106 degrees. She was admitted to the hospital.

Every sort of test was made. Nothing significant was discovered except for an increase in the bright-staining cells (eosinophiles) of her blood.

This led to the suspicion that she might have picked up a worm disease (trichinosis) from eating imperfectly cooked ham or pork.

She was injected with every known "miracle drug."

After each injection, she seemed to have longer chills and higher fever.

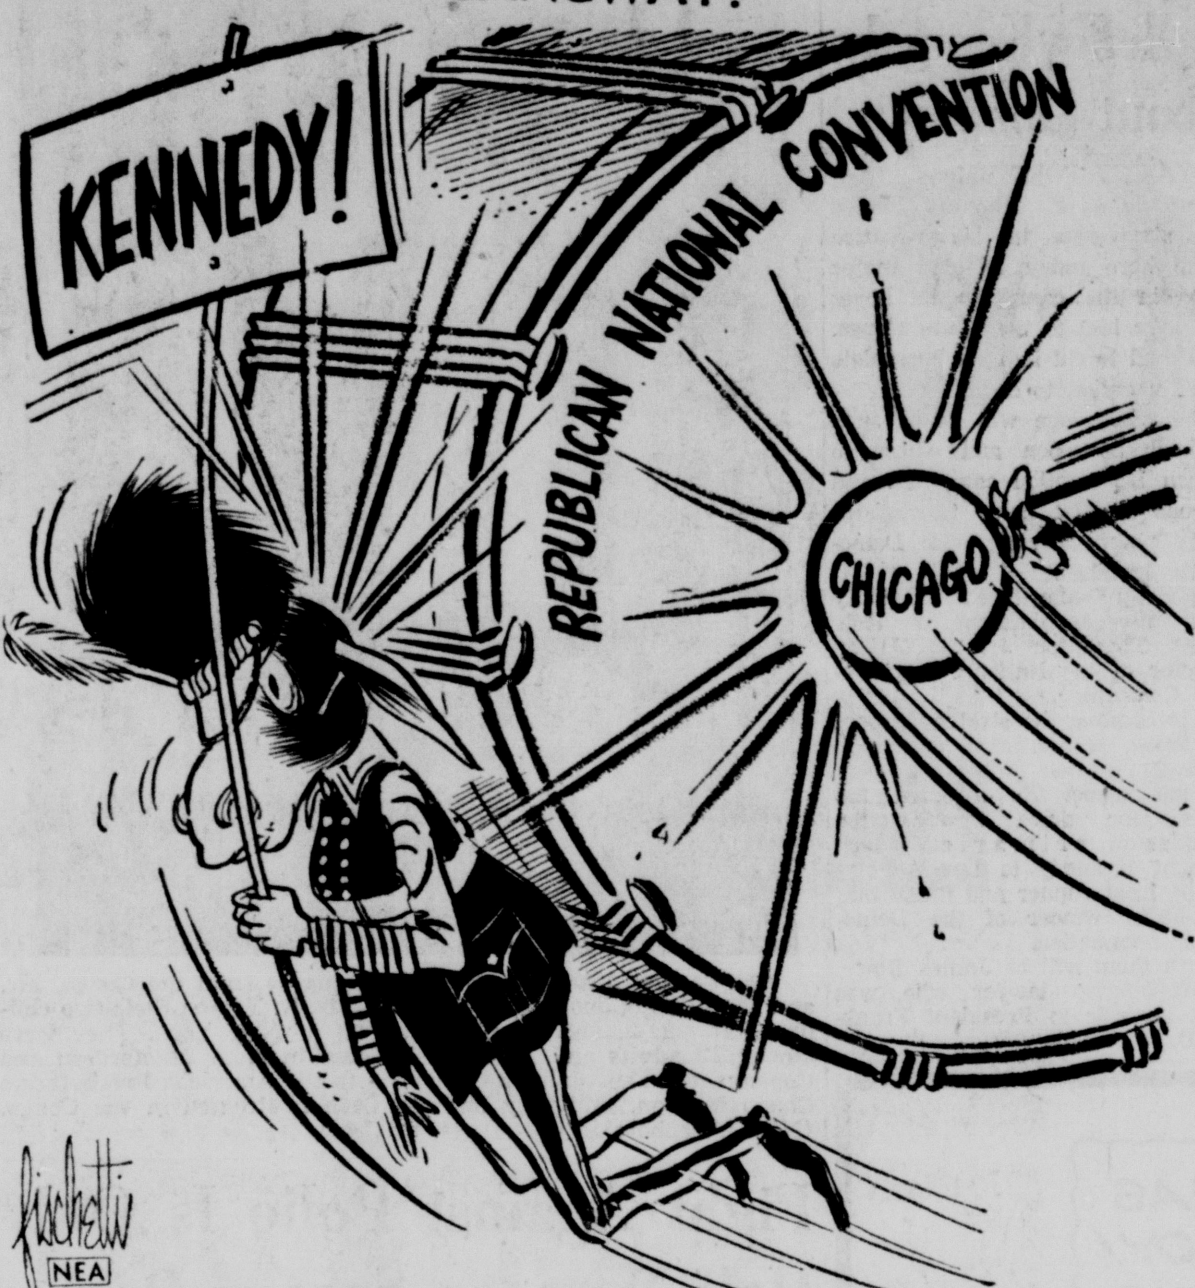

When the possibility of a tuberculin-type allergy (periarteritis nodosa) was suggested, a hunt was begun to find some substance to which she might have developed hypersensitivity.

After following more blind leads than a private eye in the most baffling whodunit, the medical detectives had their problem solved by an alert night nurse who noticed that her patient applied a facial ointment that she took from a jar on her bedside table each night.

The ointment contained a sulfa drug intended as an acne preventive. Use of the ointment and all other drugs was stopped. And the patient recovered, having presumably been sensitized to sulfa at the time of her operation many years ago.

Washington News

LOS ANGELES (NEA)—The political beauty contests at Los Angeles and Chicago and the classified golf scores at Newport seem trivial business indeed when compared to what is happening outside the U. S.

On most days during the Democratic convention, news from abroad was so big it almost crowded the Los Angeles tumult and shouting off the front pages. And yet nothing could be more important than naming the men who must direct U. S. foreign policy for the next four years.

The designation of Adlai E. Stevenson and Chester Bowles as Democratic Presidential candidates John F. Kennedy's liaison with the State Department is considered good even though confidential briefings from the Central Intelligence Agency would go only to Kennedy and Johnson. Both Stevenson and Bowles are knowledgeable, imaginative, experienced and trustworthy.

What their appointment has suggested is that as soon as the GOP presidential nominee is chosen at Chicago, he appoint two equally competent Republican statesmen as his foreign affairs liaison men at the State Department.

The cooperation of the two Republican and two Democratic interim foreign affairs advisers might even be in order during the campaign. For if ever the country needed a unified and non-partisan foreign policy behind which to rally, now is the time. The four men could even constitute a bi-partisan planning group for smooth transition from the present to the next administration.

Regardless of which party wins in November, new blood and new brains obviously are needed in the direction of American foreign policy. The present team is tired, played out, and needs relief.

The U. S. President, although hailed in many friendly countries, has been snubbed by the Russians, rejected as a visitor by the Japanese and insulted daily by Cuba. The Secretary of State has labored valiantly, but must retire from public life at the end of his term for reasons of health.

When this correspondent left Washington to cover the conventions, State Department career diplomats did not know whether the Eisenhower administration would pursue an aggressive foreign policy or conduct a holding operation until the inauguration of the next President.

The trouble is that the problems faced by the U. S. all over the world aren't going to wait until next January. They need immediate attention. As the Democratic platform's section declares:

"We must regain the initiative on the entire international front with effective new policies to create the conditions of peace."

This has a familiar bi-partisan ring. "Regaining the initiative" against communism is exactly what the late John Foster Dulles proposed to do when Chiang Kai-shek was "unashed" and there was talk of "liberating" the satellites.

Somehow these policies could never be made to work. But that is still the number one problem for both the Republicans and the Democrats.

Report Johnson Accepted To Ride Herd on Kennedy

By DAVID LAWRENCE

LOS ANGELES—Just why did Sen. Lyndon Johnson accept the Vice-Presidential nomination of the Democratic party after what he had said publicly in disparagement of the candidacy of Sen. Kennedy?

The easy, and perhaps superficial answer is that politics is politics, and that what is said before or during a convention bears no resemblance to what is said afterward as the previously named candidates for the nomination now wave their arms in the air and unabashedly cry out for "a united party."

But there is something else back of it all this time.

When word was being passed around the convention hall last Thursday that Sen. Johnson had accepted Mr. Kennedy's offer of the Vice-Presidential nomination, a close adviser of the Texas Senator approached this correspondent and said:

"I know you will be surprised about this, but last night several of us had a talk with Sen. Johnson and discussed very frankly what we were up against."

"Bear in mind that the labor leaders fought Johnson for the top place on the ticket, and they don't like him. Bear in mind that Jack Kennedy will make a campaign on virtually a socialistic platform. He may be less radical if elected, but he will be plenty radical in the campaign. What is that going to do to us in the South during the coming session of Congress and later on?"

"Well, many of us in the Johnson camp felt he just had to get in there and exercise a restraining influence. If elected, Lyndon Johnson will have considerable power inside the Senate, just as he has had as majority leader. I tell you his influence will be exerted toward safe and sane policies, and he will be in there pitching. We told him he just had to accept the Vice-Presidential nomination if offered to him. He had nothing to lose if defeated, because he would remain as majority leader."

There are many people wondering nevertheless how the Texas Senator happened to swallow the platform plank on "civil rights" which pledges the Federal government to end racial discrimination "in all areas of community life." This would appear to mean in private schools and in clubs and in the employment policies of all business establishments throughout the South.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

LOS ANGELES, July 19—Jack Kennedy's relations with George Meany, Walter Reuther, and other bosses of unions, now constitute an alliance in all respects except a treaty with seals and ribbons on it. Hitherto there has been a seeming of official apartheid between the massive unions and the Democratic party. But with the exceptions of a few erratic performances, such as John L. Lewis's perverse determination to support Wendell Wilkie in 1940, the AFL and the CIO and their many components have gone Democratic even without formal articles of devotion.

The Teamsters Union was a rich Democratic political treasury under Brandy Dan Tobin, but went Republican under his successor, Dave Beck, who recently paid for his apostasy when the Kennedy brothers, in command of the so-called McClellan Committee, dumped him. To their surprise, however, they found Jimmy Hoffa in Beck's ground office only a few minutes walk from their committee room in Capitol Hill. The Republicans regard Hoffa as a Typhoid Mary and this is a painful case because Hoffa has millions for any purpose which he might deem appropriate. But Kennedy can't have it and Richard Nixon doesn't take it. There is no need to labor the pity of that.

Maurice Hutcheson, the president of the Carpenters, is discredited and finished. This has been a Republican union for many years, but here, again, any contributions to Nixon would be tainted.

However, Reuther's money is legally sanitary and, more important, the Kennedy brothers and the Democrats on the McClellan Committee have buttered the AFL-CIO so lavishly with gratuitous vindication and excuses for corruption that the alliance is self-evident. It does not follow that the Faceless Man will vote for Kennedy and Johnson. There are localities, in West Virginia, for example, and in big cities of the north where Democratic workers at the polls will insist on helping the Faceless Man to select the proper levers on the machine.

There are many union shops and union meeting halls in which it is unwise to declare a heretical faith. But mostly the unionized voter may vote Republican and many of them may take intelligent alarm as the campaign develops under the unlimited executive power which the Democratic platform would confer on Kennedy. This platform is as loose as most union constitutions in its invitations to the President to govern by intuition. And Kennedy might go far to the left of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who discovered, to the surprise of the whole country, that he had boundless "aggregate war powers," and like his friend, he could decree "emergencies" and, having done so, confiscate anything that could be called a "facility."

The Montgomery Ward seizure was glorious example although rather salutary in the long run because it made the aggregate war powers seem both ridiculous and dangerous.

The union bosses had made a deal with Roosevelt whereby a "labor dispute" might be ground for seizure of private property. Harry Bridges was running the CIO stevedores on the west coast, but was moving inland to dragon countless miscellaneous workers in his "warehouse" auxiliaries. He decided that the Montgomery Ward employees in Chicago were warehouse workers and kicked up a "labor dispute."

Severely Avery, the president of the union, balked and the Army sent in an unfortunate and embarrassed major general to eject him by force.

Abe Raskin, the "labor" expert of The New York Times, a partisan of Bridges' own CIO through his membership in the Newspaper Guild, was a reserve Lieut.-Colonel on active service and the pentagon detailed him to combat duty as the general's press relations officer. Colonel Raskin was mortified. But his not to reason why, so he did his duty and his communications were fine examples of military expression. He and the general and the two soldiers whose pictures were taken as they carried Mr. Avery out in his chair all earned a theatre ribbon with one star for this engagement. But actually the award never was promulgated.

Not all of President Roosevelt's relations with the union executives were harmonious even though he had given them their Wagner Act, which was tantamount to a warrant to levy an income tax on the country every pay night.

The loot amounted to one thousand million a year during the war. Yet John L. Lewis is related with malicious contempt that in 1936 he had made Roosevelt send a written chat over to his headquarters, a few blocks from the White House, for every installment of an enormous campaign appropriation which Lewis under his own aggregate powers had authorized himself to give the President for the Democratic campaign. Those chits were in ever, the story may yet prove to be different.

Thus the public has been told that all the Democratic leaders, with few exceptions, have agreed to stay "loyal" to the party and go along with the nominees now that Lyndon Johnson has been given a place on the ticket. But the assumption that this will carry the electoral votes of the South may prove fallacious. The voters of the South will make up their own minds. Party organizations can go just so far, not long ago, in South Carolina, for instance, a regular Democratic organization candidate was running for the United States Senate. The voters disregarded the name of the regular nominee on the printed ballot and wrote in the name of former Gov. Strom Thurmond, and he won. This can happen again.

Much has been heard about the right to vote and much is being said about the obligation to vote. In different areas it may be expected that the people of the South will exercise their privilege of writing in the names of a slate of independent electors. The distribution in advance of slips of paper containing these names will doubtless be made as an aid to those who do not wish to vote for the party electors who are pledged to support in the electoral college the regular Republican or Democratic nominees for President and Vice-President.

Momentum for Write-In

There has been a good deal of talk about the "write-in" movement, and it was given considerable momentum by the fact that the most extreme wording from the point of view of the South was used in the "civil rights" plank adopted in the Democratic platform.

In close election the existence of a bloc comprising independent electors could hold the balance of power in the electoral college. In the 1948 election, Harry Truman was deprived of thirty-nine electoral votes in the South through the independent electors pledged to Strom Thurmond.

Senators and representatives in Congress from Southern states find themselves so tied in with the organization that they themselves cannot break away from it by deserting the national party nominees. This, however, doesn't prevent other leaders from emerging who, sensing the popular reaction, will organize the protest vote.

It remains to be seen how far the people of the South, who have been fighting with their backs to the wall, will go this time to express themselves on an issue of their own "civil rights." — the privilege to hire whom they please or to send their children to private schools when all public schools are integrated. Lewis's vault a few years ago. It is reasonably certain that they are not on display at the National Shrine at Hyde Park.

The Kennedy brothers, in their tribute to themselves entitled "The Enemy Within," actually published an earnest, implied solicitation of union treasury money and the coercive power of official support. Their tribute to Reuther and Meany has the timbre of a nomination speech for a favorable son and they earnestly labor the illusive fallacy that only a few union bosses are crooks. This is illusive because when a Dave Beck or a Hoffa controls three million subjects and their treasury under a typical constitution, the one man rules about 20 per cent of the whole union membership and perhaps a fifth of its money.

Moreover, they failed to note for their readers that Meany's home union, the plumbers, is one of the most corrupt in the country and, furthermore, that Meany grew up as a protégé of Joe Ryan and Joe Fay with a little office on the same floor with theirs in New York and never raised a whisper against them when they were at their worst.

Joe Ryan sighed in despair after Meany, at last, had caught him sick, old and vulnerable and tried to send him to prison. Joe Ryan said his boy Meany was an ingrate. Because he, Ryan, had stuffed the ballot boxes with sufficient phony votes from paper locals of his longshoremen's union to elect Meany to his first big job, president of the New York State Federation.

Thursday Poll Day On Wheat Quota System Hit As Costly Method

Some 35 Ulster County farmers are eligible to vote Thursday on whether to keep marketing quotas on wheat for 1961 as farmers in 39 states cast their ballots.

Considerable opposition to the quota system has been reported recently, some of it by the principals at the Democratic national convention.

The Freeman has also received a communication from the Committee for Constitutional Government, New York City, urging its defeat.

About 35 to Vote Here

There are some 160 wheat farmers in Ulster County but only about 30 to 35 are eligible to vote tomorrow at 59 John Street, 8 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Henry Wurzing, director of the local office of the U. S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Department, said today that to be eligible a farmer must have at least 15 acres of cropland and intend to plant 15 acres or more of wheat this year.

The communication from the Committee for Constitutional Government called attention to the position of the Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson, quoting Benson as follows:

Laws Called Obsolete

"The costly wheat surplus is our number one national problem in agriculture. It reflects gross meddling by obsolete governmental law.

"To put it bluntly, we are in a mess—a 1,000 dollar a minute mess.

"Enough old crop wheat is stored to meet domestic needs for nearly two years without producing another kernel. Yet we operate under a program that will produce additional millions of uneeded bushels."

The committee calls attention to abuses abounding in farm laws and urged those interested in removing the restrictions on production to vote, whatever their quotas, allotments or production, and to bring their wives, children, relatives and friends as joint tenants in order to maximize their voice in the referendum.

"It is to be hoped," the statement continues, "that enough farmers will take advantage of these opportunities to vote to defeat the quotas and end an operation that is hurting the entire economy, as well as wheat farmers themselves."

2 Held for ...

then arraigned before Judge Reilly.

Trooper Luongo told The Freeman that the fleeing car was weaving back and forth across the road to keep him from coming abreast and forcing the fugitives to a halt.

After stealing the car in Kingston the two men drove to the tavern, entered and were engaged in burglarizing it when Ruth Goettler, who was sleeping on a couch in the bar room, woke up and asked them what they were doing. Turning on the lights, she invited the men to have a drink, stalling for time.

At this moment her mother, who was sleeping in an upstairs apartment, heard the noise and started to descend the stairs. The men, hearing her, darted from the tavern and took up, just as Trooper Luongo appeared on the scene.

THE AMERICAN WAY—Some British think this new U.S. Embassy in London is "brash," but what they're really upset about is a huge golden eagle which will be mounted over the entrance near the roof line. The building was designed by Eero Saarinen in Portland stone and straw-colored aluminum trim.

NOT EVEN A DROP—This giant steel oil storage tank was crushed like a paper cup before it was even used. The 10,000-barrel tank, under construction at Williamsport, Pa., was crumpled by the sudden violence of a summer windstorm.

Ike Reports $1.1 Billion U.S. Surplus

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP)—President Eisenhower today announced a $1,100,000,000 budget surplus for the fiscal year which ended June 30.

The surplus is more than five times as large as the figure the President predicted last January.

"This demonstration of fiscal responsibility not only reinforces economic strength here at home, but reaffirms to the world that the United States intends to run its financial affairs on a sound basis," Eisenhower said in a statement at the summer White House.

The announcement, coming just a few days in advance of the opening of the GOP National Convention, is sure to be seized on with delight by Republicans in their campaign to retain the presidency and capture control of Congress.

This was the Eisenhower administration's third budget surplus in seven years.

In Washington, it was disclosed that the improvement from the January estimates was entirely a matter of less spending than had been anticipated.

At $77,300,000, government outlays were $1,100,000,000 less than the budget forecast. Government income was down 200 million dollars from the $78,600,000,000 forecast in January, largely because of reduced corporation earnings attributed to the 1959 steel strike.

Man Held for Hearing, Two Women Sentenced

A Poughkeepsie man was arrested Tuesday night on a charge of keeping a disorderly house at 117-A Market Street in that city.

Howard F. Gordon, 26, was arraigned in Poughkeepsie City Court this morning and the case adjourned to a late date.

Two women, Anita M. Broussard, 23, a waitress, and Mrs. Blanche Cassel, 27, both of 1 Eastman Terrace, Poughkeepsie, were arrested July 14 by the Poughkeepsie Police Department on a charge of disorderly conduct and were sentenced to 30 days each in the Dutchess County jail. A second charge of outraging public decency was dismissed.

The two women reportedly picked up a couple of sailors in a Poughkeepsie tavern and took them to the Market Street address. Police raided the house, arrested the women, and sent the sailors back to their ship.

Andrew W. Ryan, State Jurist, Dies

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—Justice Andrew W. Ryan of State Supreme Court died Tuesday night after being stricken at his home. He was 58.

He was dead on arrival at Champlain Valley Hospital.

Ryan, a Republican, had held public posts for 30 years. In 1957, when he was elected to his second term on the Supreme Court bench in the Fourth Judicial District, he had the endorsement of the Democratic and Liberal Parties, as well as that of the Republicans.

Ryan was born in Plattsburgh March 9, 1902. He was graduated from Brown University and Albany Law School and was admitted to the bar in 1926.

Four years later, he was elected district attorney of Clinton County. He held that post until 1938, when he became county judge for six years. His first 14-year term as a Supreme Court justice began in 1944. His second term would have expired in 1971.

Ryan had served as chairman of the judicial section of the State Bar Assn. He was a member of the board of directors of Champlain Valley Hospital. He also was a member of the Elks and the Knights of Columbus.

Ryan leaves his widow, the former Lillian G. MacDougal of Cambridge, N. Y., and four children, Andrew W. Ryan Jr. of Plattsburgh, Mrs. Rogers Gorman of Albany, Mrs. James Graham of Rochester and Mrs. Ronald Schiagan of Cambridge, Mass.

The funeral will be Friday in St. John's Roman Catholic Church.

The younger Ryan said his father apparently had suffered a heart attack.

Dutchess Sheriff Is Probing Man's Death

Sheriff C. Fred Close of Dutchess County said today that his office is investigating the death of Dorsey H. McKinney, 34, of the Town of Wappingers, whose body was found at 9 p. m. Tuesday slumped over the wheel of his car near Wappingers Creek in the Town of Lagrange.

McKinney, a technician at the Poughkeepsie IBM laboratory, left no notes. He had been despondent recently, it was reported.

A .22 caliber pistol was clamped in his hand. A bullet had been fired into his right temple.

A preliminary verdict of suicide was issued by Dr. Chester A. Golding, assistant Dutchess County medical examiner.

McKinney had been reported missing by his wife about 3 p. m. yesterday.

Lions Are Told Of Benefits in Ambulance Service

Members of the Kingston Lions Club heard a local ambulance service owner and an employee outline the growth of the service and review the importance of it to the city and surrounding areas, at a luncheon-meeting held Tuesday at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Frank Fatum, owner of the service, outlined the growth of the service he started with two ambulances in 1958, and within four months he added two ambulances to his fleet. He said in July, 1959, he installed two-way radios in the ambulances, which he said paid off well in providing faster service to the Kingston area.

Fatum said in his opinion as the result the faster service has saved the lives of many people who were injured more seriously in area accidents. Also, he noted, in the case of seriously injured patients, the two-way radio system is used to notify the hospital that an emergency case is on the way. Therefore, the hospital staff can be prepared for the emergency case when the patient arrives, the speaker said.

Fatum said the ambulance service is proud of the fact that it offers 24-hour a day service and at all times has personnel available who are trained and experienced in first aid.

Gilbert Gray, an employee of Fatum's, spoke on the type of first aid often rendered by the Fatum Ambulance Service and he showed several pieces of first aid equipment. He pointed out that first aid is not only rendered at the scene of accidents but also in the case of more seriously injured they are being transported to the hospital.

While thanking Fatum and Gray, Lion President Richard Kalish stated that people of Kingston "can feel proud of the Fatum Ambulance Service and their trained personnel which serves us."

To Control Alcohol

PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly voted the government power Tuesday to legislate by decree in an effort to control alcoholism. The measure is aimed mainly at giving the Cabinet power in the next four months to limit private distilling of alcohol. The vote was 290-163. The Senate still must give its approval. Premier Michel Debre told the deputies: "Alcohol kills more people than tuberculosis and twice as many as the automobile."

Following participation in field maneuvers there he returned to Jacksonville, Fla., where he is awaiting transfer to another duty station. Notice of the promotion was announced today by Sgt. Would Block Ruling PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—The State Agriculture Department and its Office of Milk Industry have been asked to help appeal a recent federal court decision on milk payments to farmers.

The request came from the newly reorganized Milk Advisory Committee appointed by Gov. Robert B. Meyner.

The committee wants to block a ruling that compensatory payments of the New York-North Jersey milk marketing area are illegal. The committee said the ruling would increase importation of fluid milk from outside areas.

CHICAGO (AP)—Did the bottle contribute more to the traffic toll than the throttle last Christmas or New Year's?

The National Safety Council said Tuesday that speed was a factor in 52 per cent of the 374 traffic fatalities over last New Year's three-day holiday, drinking only 38 per cent of the time.

Over the Christmas holiday the week before, drinking was a factor in more than half the traffic fatalities.

The council suggested that law enforcement crackdowns which sought out alcoholic drivers held down the New Year's drink-fatality ratio.

Year round, the council said, speed was a factor in 37 per cent of fatal accidents, drinking a factor in 30 per cent. In many cases, both factors helped lead up to the fatal crash.

Some other conclusions based on the study of New Year's auto deaths:

—Although only 374 deaths were recorded during the three-day holiday weekend, deaths eventually came to around 500, including those injured who died within a few days.

—The first six hours of the holiday are the most dangerous.

—Two-thirds of the fatal accidents involved only one car.

—Eighty-six per cent of accidents caused a single death; 10 per cent killed two. Three accidents took four lives apiece, and eight claimed three.

—The driver, himself, is most likely to end up in the morgue. Forty-two per cent of the New Year's victims were drivers; 38 per cent were passengers, and 20 per cent were pedestrians.

Individual accident investigation showed that, too often, a driver was careless under the assumption that pedestrians and other drivers would react more alertly and safely than he.

Portuguese Still Have Strong Hold On Two Colonies

By JOSEPH R. L. STERNE
Baltimore Sun Correspondent

LUANDA, Angola (AP)—Under the relentless pressure of African upheaval, the centuries-old isolation of Portuguese Angola is fast coming to an end.

It is being replaced by a new kind of isolation. Instead of obscurity—an obscurity that has made this southwest African territory one of the great unknowns of the continent—Angola is taking on a lonely and unwanted prominence.

Last Stronghold

Together with Mozambique, its sister Portuguese province on the African east coast, Angola is emerging as the last big stronghold of traditional European colonialism south of the Sahara.

"Thus far and no further"—this is the answer to onrushing black nationalism that Portuguese officials repeat here with regularity. They concede that the trend of events seems to be running hard against them. But they contend that the Portuguese are different from the other European colonizers who came to Africa.

Portugal is a dictatorship which stifles political opposition, not only in the overseas provinces but in the mother country as well. Press censorship, a widespread network of informers, and rigid clamps on education all discourage the growth of ideas about democracy and self-determination.

Little Chance to Learn

Africans in Angola and Mozambique have little chance to learn the precepts of liberty which, to the Portuguese way of thinking, undermined British, French and Belgian rule in Africa.

Because of Portugal's cradle-to-grave thought control, observers in many parts of Africa believe that organized black nationalism movements are practically nonexistent in Angola and Mozambique, at least so far.

When the slightest inkling of subversive activities is suspected, the authorities crack down hard.

Threat From Outside

The real threat to continued Portuguese rule appears to come from outside, especially from the Leopoldville area where a sizable group of Angolan expatriates will be able to operate openly now that the Congo has black government. They have the support of Patrice Lumumba, new premier of the Congo, and Kwame Nkrumah, President of Ghana.

Another reason for Portuguese confidence is the economic power that Mozambique and Angola exercise over the Congo. Most of the copper and other mineral exports are mined in Katanga Province, in the southeast corner of the Congo. Most travel by rail is across either Angola or Mozambique to the ports of Lobito on the west coast or Beira on the east.

If Portugal should close these rail links, admittedly at great loss to its own economy, the Congo could be quickly brought to its knees.

Raps Dems' Platform

Mahoney Advocates GOP Stand Fast on Berlin and Formosa

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Sen. Walter J. Mahoney urges the Republican party to pledge to "stand fast" in Berlin and Formosa and to refuse diplomatic recognition of Red China.

Mahoney, who was acting governor Tuesday, attacked the "captivity nations" plank in the Democratic platform and said GOP's statement of principles must contain "a sober and serious pledge to these souls behind the Iron Curtain that we have not forgotten them and never will do so."

The Republican majority leader of the state Senate expressed his views in a letter to Charles H. Percy, chairman of the Republican national platform committee in Chicago.

He termed the Democratic plank "nothing more than some mealy-mouthed wordings by Bowles and Schlesinger."

He referred to Rep. Chester Bowles of Connecticut, chairman of the Democratic platform committee, and Arthur Schlesinger Jr., a Harvard professor and adviser to Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate.

Mahoney enclosed in the letter a suggested draft of a plank entitled "Support for the Captive Nations."

The draft said, in part: "We shall strive more and more to establish closer and stronger contacts with the people of the captive nations. We shall continue to defend their rights as members of the human family."

"We shall stand fast in Berlin and in Formosa and elsewhere in the world, where and when the dictatorship of the Communist astrocracy seeks to extend the tyranny of its empire."

"We shall oppose the admission of Red China into the United Nations just as we shall refuse diplomatic recognition of the Red Chinese regime."

Mahoney was acting governor while Gov. Rockefeller and Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson were in Chicago for pre-convention work. Mahoney remained in Buffalo.

MVB Requests New Addresses Be Filed

The New York Bureau of Motor Vehicles today requested the cooperation of all resident car owners and operators in making certain that their correct addresses are on record in the bureau's central files in Albany.

A recent survey has indicated that approximately 10 per cent of the more than 6,800,000 drivers and car owners change their home address each year but that not all comply with the rule that any such change must be reported in writing to the Bureau within ten days of the move.

"Many man hours of work in searching and cross-checking the files and the resulting expense to the taxpayers could be eliminated," Commissioner William S. Hults pointed out, "if these address changes were reported immediately."

40-8 Boycotting Miami Beach Over Parade Refusal

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The 40 and 8 Society moved today to boycott Miami Beach after it was refused, at American Legion request, a parade permit.

The 40 and 8 formerly was a fun-making adjunct of the Legion. The Legion, which will hold its national convention in Miami Beach Oct. 15-20, objected to a parade scheduled by the 40 and 8 for Oct. 21 because the 40 and 8 has not opened its membership to Negroes.

Roy S. DuSan, a Miami vice president of the 40 and 8, said Tuesday "if we cannot parade in Miami Beach, we will not spend one cent more than is absolutely necessary there."

"If we . . . aren't good enough to parade in Miami Beach, we ask the 30,000 40 and 8 members who will be delegates to the Legion convention to switch their reservations away from Miami Beach and make reservations in hotels in Miami," DuSan said.

He added that national 40 and 8 officials had approved the transfer of the group's national convention, scheduled for Oct. 20-22, in Washington, Martin B. McKenney of Newburgh, N. Y., the national commander of the American Legion, said Tuesday granting a permit for a Miami Beach parade to the 40 and 8 would have been offensive to the Legion.

THE CONGO: From Darkness to Light to Darkness

DARKNESS IN AFRICA — While the United Nations prepares to send troops into what was formerly the Belgian Congo, now the Republic of the Congo, riots, looting and dangerous political developments continue in the weeks-old land. The nation of 14 million (not to be confused with the Congo Republic, once a French colony) has already seen its richest province, Katanga, split away. Premier Moïse Tshombe of Katanga has called the Congo government Communist, has demanded Belgian troops remain and has announced he would not allow U.N. troops into his province. At the same time, the Republic of the Congo has broken off diplomatic relations with Belgium.

Rules on Obscenity

Ask How Censor Determines Basis for Banning of Film

(Editors: This is the second of a three-part series on New York State's movie-censorship law. Today's article discusses how the censors now operate.)

By MICHAEL KEATING
Associated Press Staff Writer
ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—How do New York State's censors of motion pictures determine what is obscene?

The question was put to Louis M. Pesce, who, as director of the Education Department's Division of Motion Pictures, is the state's chief censor.

Had No Quick Answer
He was not ready with a quick answer.

When he did reply, it became apparent that the subject did not lend itself to quick answers. Pesce conceded that the determination of obscenity generally was subjective. What is obscenity to one person is acceptable drama to another.

There are no fast rules that govern the censors, such as "No Nudity," "No Lengthy Kissing," "No Undressing."

Hangs on Decision
Hovering, over each decision of the censorship panel of three men and two women, are the court rulings that consistently have gone against the state censorship law. The one-broad statute, which authorized the state to ban films on such grounds as immorality, indecency and sacrilege, now is constrained to operate only in the field of obscenity.

Pesce said the court decisions prevent the censors from judging the overall theme or effect of a motion picture. They must consider only the parts.

The parts given the closest scrutiny are the "love scenes."

"In these scenes," Pesce said, "we order cuts where the specific delineation of a particular erotic act overrides the total whole of a movie."

Few Guidelines
But again, there are few specific guidelines. Nudity, for instance, is permissible. The State Court of Appeals ruled so in the case of "The Garden of Eden."

"We have allowed nudity in some circumstances," Pesce said, "but have ordered cuts in others. Exposure of private parts in erotic scenes we consider going too far. If nudity occurs casually and plausibly, we've allowed it."

Erotica in movies is not forbidden. "It's a question of degree," he said. "A certain amount of undressing is allowed," he said, "but undressing for the purpose of exposing breasts is forbidden."

He said most of the cuts ordered centered around erotic activity and mostly were in foreign-made films and those produced by small domestic firms.

One Totally Banned
So far, the censors have not been challenged in this activity. In the year ended last March, one movie was banned totally, and cuts were ordered in approximately 45 of the 1,094 films licensed. No one challenged these decisions in court.

The movie banned totally "was not an important film," Pesce said. It was produced by a small, domestic company and contained extensive nudity "with a definite appeal to prurient interest," he said.

Asked to identify the motion picture, he replied that it was department policy not to do so lest the distributor suffer hurt or publicity value be gained.

Pesce said the censors "try to reflect public standards and attitudes" in making their decisions. Periodically, he said, they leave their New York City office and attend movies in the theaters. There, they try to gauge the public's reactions.

Hugh M. Flick, an associate education commissioner and Pesce's superior, believes that even the present, limited function of the censors might be challenged effectively in court.

Pesce, however, considers the state to be on relatively safe ground.

Cite Case of Books
In cases dealing with books, Pesce said, "the Supreme Court seemed to establish that obscenity was a class of speech not entitled to the Constitutional guarantee of free speech."

The statute might be effective legally, but is it satisfactory? Both Flick and Pesce and apparently the State Board of Regents say no. Their objections will be discussed in the next article.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—About 15 tons of gold was flown this week from Toronto to New York. It may have been the largest shipment ever entrusted to one plane. But also it's one of the occasions when gold actually comes in or out of this country—occasions that are rarer than most people may think.

Most Stays in New York
There's been much talk in recent years of the flow of gold out of the United States. The flow talk is based on the act that the Treasury's stock of gold is five billion dollars lower than 10 years ago, with the greatest drop in the last three years.

But very little of that solid metal actually flowed from these shores. Most of it stays right in New York.

Instead of being held by the U. S. Treasury at Ft. Knox, Ky., it has been moved six blocks from the U. S. Assay Office in lower Manhattan to the vaults of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, where it is earmarked for the account of whatever foreign nation is the new owner.

It is stacked in the vaults in the form of gold bars weighing about 27 pounds each, valued at about $14,000.

No Explanation
The Canadian gold came from the Toronto branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia. Neither that bank nor the Federal Reserve cares to say why the gold was brought here. Nor does the Federal Reserve care to discuss how much gold it holds for foreign account, nor for which countries.

But the Federal Reserve Bank here acts as a financial exchange for the central banks of other nations and is probably the world's largest depository of gold earmarked for such banks.

Other nations can settle their international accounts by having the Federal Reserve Bank move the gold from one pile to another.

Is Rarely Moved
For example, if Canada's trade balance with England is running a deficit, Canada could have the New York bank transfer the necessary amount of gold from Canada's account to England's. In turn, if it needed to and wanted to, England could transfer gold held here to the account of West Germany.

All the deals would take place within the vaults of the New York Federal Reserve Bank. Only occasionally is the gold itself moved to another land.

When the United States needed for the last three years to settle its balance of payment deficits with other nations, it trucked into the Federal Reserve vaults gold held in the U. S. Assay Office here. A sizable sum of U. S. gold is kept on hand there, although the big hoard is at Ft. Knox.

The public for the first time will be permitted to witness the entire judging.

Entry blanks will be available in the Saugerties business district on August 1, and the deadline for nominations will be August 15.

The competition this year will be a preliminary to the Miss New York State Pageant to be held in Kingston, and the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N. J.

The winner in addition to representing Saugerties in the State Pageant, will also be awarded a scholarship, the amount to be announced prior to the contest. Other awards will also be presented to the winners.

To be eligible to enter, a girl must be a resident of the Town of Saugerties for the past six months prior to the contest, never married, and 17 to 27 years of age by September 1, 1960.

Former contestants are also eligible to compete and local girls attending colleges or institutions of higher education are urged to enter, Mrs. Feldmann emphasized.

Local organizations and individuals may nominate a girl. Letters will be mailed shortly to local business and professional men asking for support of the scholarship fund with a contribution.

The contributor will receive sponsor tickets for each of the two nights and will be listed on the program.

Local concerns or individuals may present the girl they nominate on a float or in a car in the Assemblage Day parade.

Hearing Aug. 3 For Mt. Marion Youth in Fracas

A Mt. Marion youth, who shot himself in the shoulder last month following a fight with a High Woods merchant and was charged with assault, second degree, must appear before Justice of the Peace Robert Ferrigan, Town of Kingston, Wednesday, Aug. 3 at 7 p. m.

Following arraignment July 2, he was released in the custody of his parents.

Gerald Leslie Proper, 19, of 3 Country Club Drive, Mt. Marion Park was released from Kingston Hospital prior to arraignment.

The charge against Proper was the result of an altercation with Harry Wilgus, proprietor of a general store in High Woods. The argument occurred early June 25, reportedly involving the serving of beer. Proper allegedly struck Wilgus over the head with a bottle, producing lacerations requiring 18 stitches.

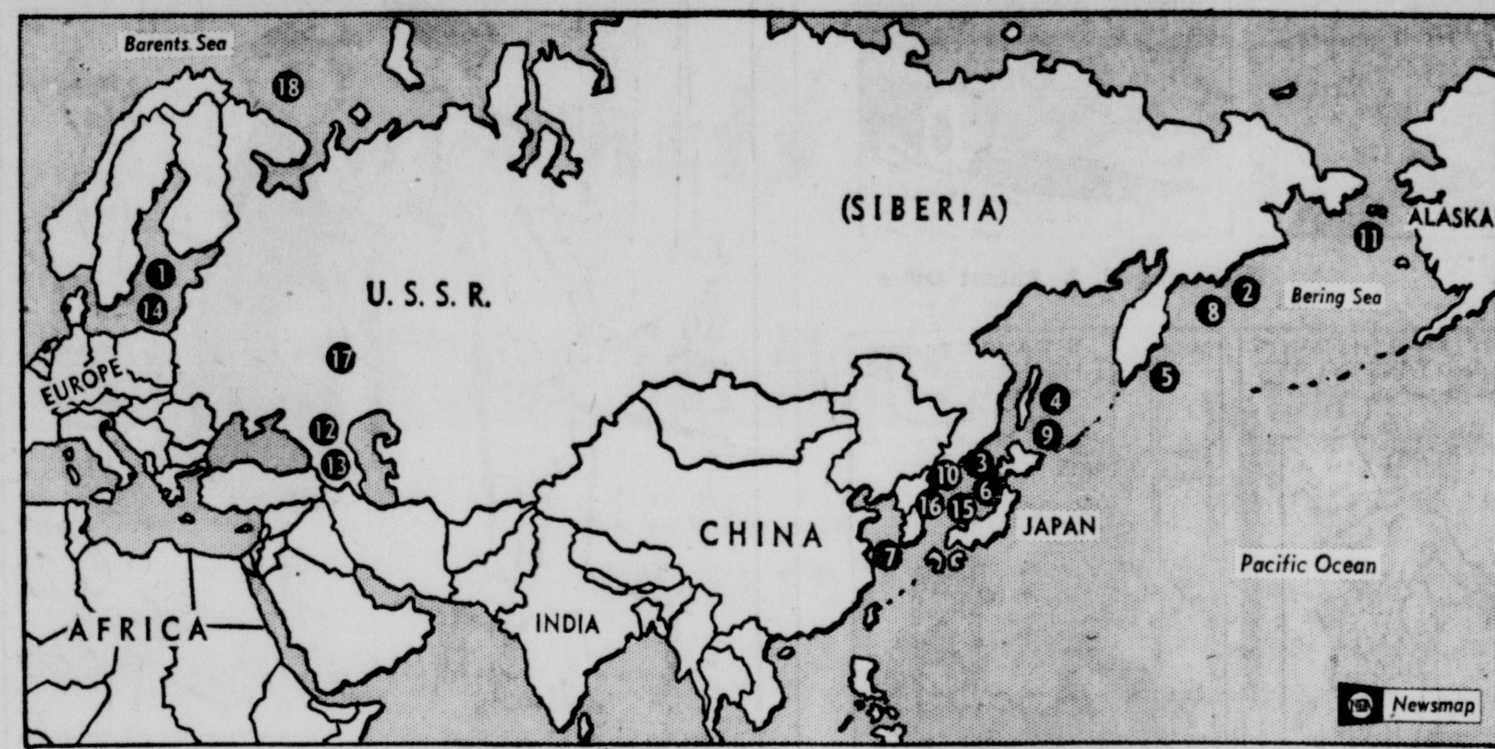

After the quarrel, Proper drove to the home of Sharon Vaughn, 17, of Hommelville Road, Town of Saugerties, and standing on her lawn discharged a bullet into his shoulder after a fourth attempt, police said.

'Cold War' Casualties--

In the past 10 years, dozens of American airmen have lost their lives -- or freedom -- in aerial "incidents" with Soviet Russia. Newsmap below spots 18 of these encounters. Most recent was the shooting down of an Air Force RB-47 on a scientific flight over the Barents Sea. Moscow claims the plane was on a spy mission and violated Russian territory. Washington has strongly denied the charge and warned of "the most serious consequences" if any more U. S. planes are shot down over international waters. A U. S. note demanded release of the two fliers.

State Makes Final Equalization Rates for Sectors

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The State Equalization Board has made final the state equalization rates for Lockport, Port Jervis, Johnstown and Poughkeepsie and Niagara Falls.

The final rates announced Tuesday were the same as the tentative rates announced earlier except for Niagara Falls, which received a final rate of 39. The tentative rate was 38.

The raise resulted from additional information on the value of commercial property in the city, the board said.

Equalization rates are percentage assessments by the board based on how the communities' evaluations of real property compare with the market value of the property. The rates are used to determine state aid to localities.

The final rates: Johnstown, 37; Lockport, 46; Port Jervis, 42; and Poughkeepsie, 43.

Dismissal Is Won By Estate of $41,285 Tax Claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — The estate of Hilda M. Lenna of Jamestown, N. Y., has won dismissal of an Internal Revenue Service claim for $41,285 in taxes.

The U. S. Tax Court ruled Tuesday that trust funds containing 500 shares of Blackstone Corp. stock set up by Mrs. Lenna for her daughter and two sons before her death properly were omitted from a federal estate tax return filed in 1956.

Mrs. Lenna died Oct. 18, 1954. The court said she set up the trusts Jan. 2, 1953, to carry out the wishes of her late husband and not in anticipation of her death.

The Internal Revenue Service claimed Mrs. Lenna established the trusts in contemplation of death and they should have been included in her gross estate for tax purposes.

The court noted that Mrs. Lenna was in excellent health for 21 months after she set up the trusts. She died of a heart attack at the age of 72.

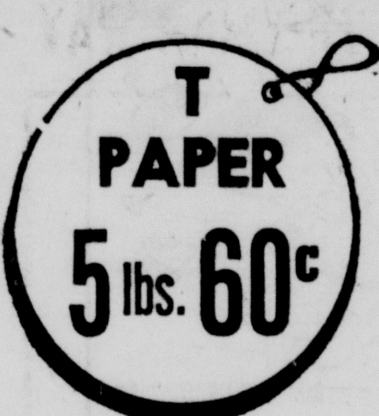

The Blackstone firm in Jamestown manufactures automobile radiators, heaters and household appliances. It was founded by Mrs. Lenna's husband.

Her survivors included Reginald A. Lenna, resident of Blackstone; Harry A. Lenna, Blackstone's secretary and treasurer; and Helen Lenna Milham.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Tom Walsh of 37 Boulevard, Kingston, dealer in historical books of the Hudson River Valley and Ulster County, again brought me some rare items. These are rare being the written minutes and other data on the Ulster-Delaware Plank Road from Feb. 8th, 1850 to Dec. 19, 1851. One book is written in the beautiful, careful script of Charles W. Schaffer, the first secretary.

The first meeting was held at Clark's Hotel on Friday, Feb. 8th, 1850. Nine directors were present including Thomas Cornell. They elected James C. Forsythe, president; Charles W. Schaffer, secretary; Nicholas Elmendorf, treasurer. Forsythe and Hasbrouck's was to be the office of the company for the coming year. Alvin Bushnell was appointed agent of the company at a salary of $1,000 for the year. No doubt readers may recognize some of these names as their ancestors.

Listed are the following gate keepers for 1851: No. 1 gate (4 miles) Mr. Lockwood; No. 2 (8 miles) Mr. Van Gasbeck; No. 3 (16 miles) Mr. Mitchell; No. 4 (20 miles) Sherman Allen. In 1852 the following changes and additions were made: Gate No. 1 (1 mile) Abr. A. Van Gasbeck; Gate No. 2 (8 miles) John Kelder; Gate 3 (16 miles) John Mitchell; Gate 4 (20 miles) Sherman Allen; Gate 5 (28 miles) Philip E. Crispell.

Philip V. D. Lockwood was made agent to superintend construction of 14 miles of the road commencing at or near Kingston Bridge, "at compensation not to exceed $1,000 per annum for the time so engaged." Forsythe and Hasbrouck were engaged as attorneys for the company.

The committee of the Ulster and Delaware Plank Road Co. were to receive $150 each for ensuing year. April 20th, 1850 they met at Clark's Hotel and plans were made to grade, clear out and fill up and raise bed of said road to lay the sills and plank it in a good substantial manner and finish road in a workmanlike manner. This was to be given in contract for $600 per mile for whole road. The sum of $400 more to be paid for all the extra work on whole road. Mr. (Jabber or Jabs) Lewis agreed to deduct the sum of $400 from above estimate and it seems he received the contract.

Feb. 11, 1851 the executive committee reported that the track of the Plank Road was constructed from Shandaken Center at the junction of the Pratsville Turnpike road easterly, about 7 and a half miles and from Kingston bridge, west, about 12 miles and a small exception near the Vly and Conrad's Bergh, in all about half a mile, "all of which is nearly finished and now in use as a Plank Road."

I am reading this from the 110 year old script and spelling and names of places have changed somewhat. It seems so far that for lumber and labor they spent some $28,033.30. One item reads in part: "repairs of the road and bridges including new arch bridge over the Barber-bush Kill, the past season, $3,366.00." They also mention they have "purchased and have on hand two yoke of oxen and a quantity of Turnpike tools at $30.00." No doubt this one book which covers some 30 years of this venture will show many interesting changes. Will quote from it again.

Other Woman—Now, who told you that?

Woman—Oh, nobody, but I've heard several people speaking well of you lately.

A kindergarten teacher gave each of her pupils a psychological test by getting them to carve an object of their own design from a bar of soap. After a while, she went around the class with pencil and paper, taking notes as the children explained their works of art. Elephant, dog, man, tree, gun... she began her list.

Then she came to a boy whose work she couldn't recognize. He had just carved the soap to pieces. "What's this, Tommy?" she asked.

Came the reply: soap flakes.

Troubles Mounting Over GOP Platform

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democrats almost fractured themselves on the civil rights issue in Los Angeles. But they're not the only ones with troubles. Look at the Republicans in Chicago.

The image of themselves which the Democrats and Republicans would like to project is that of two political parties representing a clearcut difference on issues and solutions.

Tough Position

But since both are composed of liberals and reactionaries at the extreme ends, with a broad band of conservatives in the middle of both parties, their problem is trying to whip together a campaign platform.

It comes down to this: How to take a position which, while it can't possibly reconcile the three main viewpoints inside each party, will at least not be so indigestible that it will compel any of the three groups to leave the room.

In Los Angeles last week the majority of Democrats approved a civil rights plank which goes further in support of civil rights for Negroes than any plank in the history of the Democratic party.

More Due From Dixie
It infuriated Southerners, some of whom as a minimum wished to demonstrate against the plank on the convention floor. An open break and Southern walkout was avoided.

But the Democratic party hasn't heard the last of it, even though it picked Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas to be its vice presidential candidate, a move clearly intended to keep the Southern states in line.

As late as Tuesday Mississippi's Gov. Ross Barnett was taking the lead in urging a Southern bolt from the Democratic Party. He called the civil rights plank obnoxious, horrible and repulsive.

The liberal and extreme right wings of the Republican party collided Tuesday in Chicago before the GOP committee which is trying to nail together the Republican platform.

On the liberal side was New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller who has run head-on into the ideas of President Eisenhower's conservative administration, particularly on defense spending.

Urges More for Defense

Rockefeller urged an additional spurge of 3½ billion dollars on defense, although Eisenhower has long made it clear he thinks present defense spending is enough.

The extreme right wing of the party was represented in Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. He calls himself a conservative and is so far from seeing eye to eye with Rockefeller that he previously suggested the New Yorker run for president on the Democratic ticket.

Clinton Rossiter, a political scientist, in his recent book, "Parties and Politics in America," goes into great detail to try to distinguish the differences between the parties and within the parties.

"There can be no doubt that a wide gap of ideology and aspiration yawns between men like Sens. Case (NJ), Javits (NY) and Cooper (KY) and Sens. Goldwater, Capehart (Ind) and Bridges (NH)."

"The lofty figure of Eisenhower has kept them all working amiably together, but the split may yet deepen into a serious wound."

No one who watches Congress year after year can doubt that except in times of extreme emergency, like the depression of the 1930s, the leadership and the bulk of the action in both parties in Congress is pretty conservative.

Plattekill

PLATTEKILL—Vacation Bible school, sponsored by members of Plattekill and Rossville Methodist Churches, will end its two weeks session on Friday.

The theme was "The Church," and 77 children registered for the course of study, handicraft, and recreation under the supervision of 20 instructors and assistants.

A closing program for the children and their parents has been arranged for Sunday 7:30 p. m. at Plattekill Methodist Church.

Miss Dorothy Olree of Highland, a teacher in Plattekill School, is on a tour of Mexico at this time.

Mrs. Augustus Baxter, who has been spending the past months with her daughter in New Jersey, is visiting her sister in Connecticut.

Eighty-eight members of the Plattekill Grange attended the annual family picnic held at Algonquin Park, Newburgh, recently.

Why We Say--

TELL A "GAG" 7-20

A joke is referred to as a gag because of its relation to show business. If an actor started to utter the wrong lines during a performance, another actor would break in with a joke designed to quiet his fellow performer and act as a gag (or silence) until he remembered the right lines.

Jump to Game Shows Trumps

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Take a look at the North hand only. Your partner opens two spades and you have very good support for spades, but a mere two point hand.

Wouldn't you like to be able to show this right off the bat? Of course you would and there is a simple way to do so. You simply jump to four spades provided you and your partner have agreed that this particular jump raise shows exactly what you have—very good trump support and no ace, king or void suit. Some people play this bid as also showing no singleton, but I don't go that far. I want to be able to use the bid occasionally.

Strangely enough this convention is most useful in keeping out of bad slams. You jump to four spades and if your partner has two quick losers in any suit he simply passes.

Today's North-South cards would probably reach the grand slam with any bidding system,

NORTH 20
♥ Q 9 6 5 4
♠ 6 4 3 2
WEST	EAST
♥ 3	♥ 8 2
♦ J 10 8 6 4	♦ 2
♣ Q 10 7	♣ J 9 5 3 2
♠ K J 9 8	♠ A Q 10 7 5
SOUTH (D)
♥ A K J 10 7
♦ A K Q 9 5
♣ A K 4
♠ None
Both vulnerable
South West North East
2 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
7 ♠ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead—♥ J

but the four spade jump by North eliminates all problems. South simply counts no losers in any suit and jumps there. The play is just as easy in spite of the bad heart break. South trumps two hearts and one diamond in dummy.

Two Big Issues Involved

Kennedy Explains How He'll Meet Age, Religion Factors

Editor's Note — Two personal issues involving Sen. John F. Kennedy have loomed large in his pre-convention campaign and are likely to recur, with varying emphasis, in the presidential drive ahead—his age and his religion. Here's how the Democratic nominee has proposed to meet them. Last of three articles.

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent

Sen. John Fitzgerald Kennedy is a Roman Catholic. He is 43 years old but looks younger.

To some politicians both facts are handicaps to a candidate for the presidency. Kennedy's religion involved the memory of the 1928 election when the Democratic candidate, Alfred E. Smith of New York, a Catholic, went down to defeat. As to Kennedy's age, former President Truman recently asked him to consider whether he is sufficiently mature and experienced to be president.

3 Principal Tactics
Kennedy himself recognized that the voters might wonder about him on both counts.

So nearly a year ago, before he announced for the Democratic nomination, he set out to meet the two questions, head-on. As his campaign progressed, he used three principal tactics—

First, he practically invited questions from his audiences.

Second, he demonstrated his vote-pulling power in primary elections, notably West Virginia, where the Catholic population is small.

Third, he took two strategic opportunities to deliver major speeches, one on his religion and the other on his age, before large and important audiences.

Cost Incident Typical

An incident in a small California city last autumn was typical. After his speech, Kennedy was answering questions. A man asked a confused, double-barreled question, partly about a national issue and partly about Kennedy's religion.

The senator replied: "It seems to me these are two separate questions, but first, as to my religion . . ."

He then stated, as he was to restate many times later, his reasons for insisting that a man's religion should not be a factor in his fitness for office.

Rules Out Dictation

In his Wisconsin campaign, Kennedy said, time and again, that as president he would not accept dictation from any source.

Before the West Virginia primary, he said: "I would hate to think I lost this election the day I was baptized." Paul Ziffren, California national committeeman, says this single sentence gave Kennedy the state.

Then, before the American Society of Newspaper Editors meeting in Washington last April, Kennedy made a full-dress review of the question.

Among other things, he told the editors: "There is only one legitimate question: Would you, as president of the United States, be responsive in any way to ecclesiastical pressures or obligations of any kind that might in any fashion influence or interfere with your conduct of that office in the national interest? I have answered that question many times. My answer was and is 'No.'"

No Vatican Envoy

He said he opposed federal aid to parochial schools and would oppose, if the issue arose, an ambassador to the Vatican.

Referring to the Wisconsin primary, he asked: "Of those Catholics who voted for me, how many did so on grounds of religion; how many because they felt my opponent was too radical; how many because they were union members; how many for some other reason? I do not know. And the facts are that no one knows."

"For the voters are more than Catholics, Protestants, or Jews. They make up their minds for many diverse reasons, good and bad."

Sees No Difference

He noted that he had taken the oath of office many times, as senator and congressman, and that "little or no attention was paid to my religion" on those occasions. He asked, "What is there about the presidency that justifies this constant emphasis upon a candidate's religion?"

Finally, he noted that the issue exists, and said, "It is my job to face it frankly and fully."

The matter of Kennedy's age and experience did not arise so often. But after Truman's question, Kennedy went on television to answer it.

Makes Two Points

He made two main points: 1. "If we are to establish a test for the presidency whereby 14 years in major elective office is insufficient experience, then all but a handful of our presidents since the very founding of this nation would have to be ruled out, and every president in the 20th Century would have to be ruled out."

2. "To exclude from positions of trust and command all those below the age of 44 would have kept Jefferson from writing the Declaration of Independence, Washington from commanding the Continental Army, Madison from fathering the Constitution, Hamilton from serving as secretary of the treasury, Clay from being elected speaker of the House, and Christopher Columbus from discovering America. I do not believe the American people are willing to impose any such test. For this is still a young country, founded by young men . . ."

Fearless Farmers

Despite the constant danger of eruptions from Mount Vesuvius, Italian farmers make their homes and cultivate the rich soil almost to the edge of the crater.

50 YEARS — The insignia of the Camp Fire Girls is carried on this stamp which will go on sale in New York City Nov. 1 to mark the 50th anniversary of that group. A half-million girls are members today.

Clarice Leavy, Woodstock, was a local caller Saturday. Mrs. Leavy, formerly connected with Woodstock theatricals, is now costume consultant for the Hyde Park Playhouse of which David Samples is the director.

Having a birthday, July 24, is Arthur J. Bush, son of James and Mildred Carter Bush. S/Sgt. Bush is currently stationed at Castle Air Base, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Shultis, Wittenberg, were numbered among the many callers in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday. Mrs. Shultis for several years has operated the mail route between Mt. Tremper and Bearsville, sometimes having to wait for hours until the roads through that hilly terrain have been plowed out.

New Ontario School teachers this year will include Lawrence Stow, music, and Bernard Carpinelli, science. They are graduates, respectively, of Lincoln University and The Citadel Military College.

A group of Woodstock people visiting the local museum Saturday was made up of: Florence Watts, writer; Adele Pelletier, decorator; and Blanche Small and Frances Riddick, artists.

McKneally Tells Why 40-8 Can't Get March Right

WASHINGTON (AP) — Martin B. McKneally, national commander of the American Legion, today issued a statement concerning the denial of a parade permit to the 40 and 8 by Miami Beach, Fla.

He said the granting of such a permit would have been "offensive" to the Legion and that the 40 and 8 "has done nothing to rid itself of the illegality and its constitution whereby its membership is restricted to members of the white race."

His statement: "The 42nd national convention of the American Legion is scheduled to be held in Miami Beach on Oct. 15 to 20. It was learned recently that the 40 and 8 organization had applied to the city council of Miami Beach for a permit to hold a parade in that city on Friday, Oct. 21. I explained to Mr. Morris N. Lipp, the city manager of Miami Beach, that granting of such a permit would be offensive to the American Legion.

"This is so because identification of the 40 and 8 with the American Legion would thereby be achieved and a misunderstanding of the relationship which exists between the American Legion and the 40 and 8 organization would be created in the mind of the public."

"The 40 and 8 organization has done nothing to rid itself of the illegality in its constitution whereby its membership is restricted to members of the white race. The American Legion cannot permit itself to be associated with such illegality. I explained further to Mr. Lipp that while the American Legion will neither dictate to nor bring pressure upon local authorities in connection with its convention, it would, however, be necessary to move its convention from the city of Miami Beach if the permission were granted to the 40 and 8."

"In a later phone call, Mr. Lipp informed me that the permission had been denied."

"This statement is issued in an effort to clarify reports which have already been published concerning the matter."

Translator Wanted

BALTIMORE (AP)—For more than a year, Miss Odette Achain has received what appeared to her to be love letters from a gentleman in Tunisia, Africa. The Tunisian hired a secretary to write his letters in what he thought was French. But Miss Achain reads French like a Frenchwoman—which she is—and knew the man was unaware of exactly what his secretary was writing. Miss Achain explained the letters were coming in Petit Negre, which is elementary; French as it is spoken in the colonies by the natives. So she asked her pen pal to forward some of his sentiments in his own hand. He did. The letter came the other day, written in Arabic.

Not a single cracked egg since Chevy took over the route

That '60 Fleetside pickup you see takes whatever kind of road comes along, and makes about 250 stops a day delivering eggs house to house for Mr. Harry Hansen of Missoula, Montana. "With my previous truck," Mr. Hansen writes, "I always had some cracked eggs. Cargo damage always cut into my profits. But the new Chevy eliminated that problem completely. I haven't had one cracked egg with my new truck and I've had up to a ton of eggs in it without any difficulty. . . . I didn't know a truck could ride so nice."

Chevy rides nice, all right: takes good care of fragile cargoes. But that's not even the half of it. Torsion-spring suspension also means longer life for the truck, extra thousands of working miles, because the sheet metal and body components take less of a beating. You can run off-the-road or over back trails at faster safe speeds, too; get in more trips a day, make more money. Those facts are as true of the big Chevrolet heavyweights as they are of the pickups. Any model you name. Get one on your job and you've got the world's most efficient, most economical way to haul any load over any road. Your dealer will be happy to prove that statement any day you say.

"I'm getting close to 20 miles to the gallon," Mr. Hansen states, "and that's on stop-and-go delivery."

55 Educators From Ireland Hear About System in U.S.

Fifty-five educators from Ireland, who will be in New Paltz for two weeks to learn about the system of education in the United States, today heard a talk by Dr. Earl McGrath, executive officer for the Institute of Higher Education, Teachers College, Columbia University.

The educators arrived at the State University College of Education at New Paltz Sunday night, when they were officially welcomed by Leland Heinze, public relations director at the college on behalf of Mayor Henry DuBois, New Paltz. Heinze is a member of the Village Board.

Dr. McGrath, a former U. S. Commissioner of Education, in his talk this morning, explained the United States philosophy of education as compared with the philosophy of European education. Dr. McGrath was scheduled to again address the group this afternoon on the topic, "Organization of Education in the United States."

On Wednesday, the group goes to Albany where they will visit the Capitol and later be luncheon guests of the State Education Department. They will hear talks by Dr. Hugh Flick, of the State Education Department, and Dr. Nate Kuhlman, of the New York State Teachers Association.

During the visit at Albany the group will view a demonstration of teaching by closed circuit television at the College of Education. They will be guests at a reception to be given by Dr. Thomas Hamilton, president of the State University College of Education of New York and Mrs. Hamilton.

Professor Maurice H. Fouracre, of Columbia University, addressed the group Monday afternoon on education of gifted and retarded children. Later an informal picnic was held on the campus with the 500 girls and boys enrolled in the summer program attending.

In charge of the local seminar at New Paltz are three faculty members of the State University College of Education at New Paltz. They are, Dr. Eugene P. Lin, chairman of social sciences; Lincoln Igou, professor of music; and Dr. John H. Jacobson, chairman of general education division.

The seminar is sponsored by the United States Office of Education under the government cultural exchange program.

President William H. Haggerty of the State University College of Education, New Paltz, welcomed the group Monday morning and conducted the orientation program.

Gotham Girl Is Killed in Crash At Fleischmanns

FLEISCHMANN, N. Y. (AP)—

A 16-year-old girl was killed and seven men injured, two critically, Monday night when two automobiles collided on Route 28 near this Delaware County community.

Miss Priscilla Tompkins of New York City was found dead beneath the overturned convertible in which she had been a passenger. Police said the convertible, driven by Richard Colosimo, 24, of Pine Hill in Ulster County, was westbound when it apparently went out of control on a curve.

The other auto, eastbound, was driven by Charles Shultz, 17, of Kelly Corners.

The Colosimo vehicle sheared off a utility pole. The crash severed a 4,078-volt power line on the rain-drenched road, causing a power loss in a portion of this resort community. Power was restored at 1:15 a. m.

In critical condition at the Margaretville Hospital were William Ennist, 20, of Pine Hill, and Gordon Willman, 19, of Vega.

Colosimo, Shultz, Robert Caloulli, 17, of Vega, James Davis, 19, of Fleischmanns and Verlyn Ingram, 19, of Dunraven, were in fair condition at the same hospital.

Ennist and Davis were passengers in Colosimo's auto. The other four injured were riding with Shultz.

Scientist Alexander von Humboldt, a close friend of Thomas Jefferson, wrote a 30-volume scientific masterpiece called "Cosmos." The index alone required 1,117 pages.

YMCA News

The YMCA held a successful city-wide fishing tournament promoted and supervised by Frank Rebollo, Youth Director.

Over 150 boys from the Kingston area, ages 8 to 15 years old participated in the contest. It was held in the Rondout creek at the Kingston Freeman parking lot and the property adjoining.

The boys registered at 8:30 a. m. and by 10 a. m. 102 boys were ready to cast in their lines. Officers George Barringer of the Kingston police was given the honor to shoot the starting gun. This was a signal that all lines were cast into the creek and in less than a minute Joseph Ruger of RDI Box 348 Woodstock caught the first fish, an eight inch white perch.

Fourteen parents acted as officials, doing the measuring and weighing of each catch. They were: Esther Bodie, Dorothy Kelly, Rebecca Palen, Vivian Bodie, Dorothy Kelly, Rebecca Palen, Vivian Bodie, Betty Goddard, Florence Bush, Alice Ellsworth, Mary Berryman, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Oleschuk, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hults, Mrs. Warren Herring, and Anthony David. There were many more parents watching the spectacle.

By 12 noon, Joseph Ruger, and Barry Present were tied in catching the most fish, but at 3 p. m. Joseph Ruger came out ahead with 14 fish, the largest being a catfish 13 inches long and weighing 16 ounces. Joseph received two of the five awards.

They were for the first fish and the most fish caught. Joseph passed his brother David who was holding the lead for having the heaviest fish by half an ounce.

Stephen Betley with his 13 inch eel was holding the lead for the longest fish until 2:50 p. m. when Michael Bush of 38 Shufeldt Street, who already caught six fish, pulled in his seventh that was the largest and longest catch of the day. It was a catfish 16 inches long and weighed 18 ounces. At 3 p. m. Officer George Barringer gave the final signal to end the contest.

Michael Spada, proprietor of the Spada's Sporting goods store at 594 Broadway awarded the prizes to the winners.

Joseph Ruger received a spin casting reel and a fishing reel and Michael Bush received a "My Buddy" tackle box with assorted accessories and an angler's spin casting rod.

John David of 65 Linderman Avenue won the "booby" prize for catching some plastic pieces of material off the bottom of the creek.

The lifeguards who assisted were Karl Glotzl and James Rundle. Louis Schaefer, general secretary of the local "Y" stopped by to witness the proceeding and offered a special prize to the boy catching the heaviest fish.

This was the first city-wide fishing contest promoted by the local YMCA. Its success was made possible because of the co-operation of the Kingston police department, parents and friends. Many thanks extended to them.

DON'T BE TOO EAGER

Dear Mrs. Post: A man whom I happened to meet through friends, ended our conversation the other evening at their house by expressing a wish to see me sometime. I answered that I would be glad to see him. It was left that way. I am wondering whether it is up to me to let him know what evening would suit me, or whether that he said was just preliminary to find out whether I would turn him down if he called me sometime and asked to see me.

Answer: Such a gesture on your part would be much too eager, unless you are giving a party or unless you perhaps ask him to make a fourth at bridge. But to telephone him, "I'm going to be home on Wednesday evening, won't you come to see me?" is what a nice, or clever girl does not do.

Chooses Her Loved Uncle

Dear Mrs. Post: About a year ago I married a widow with two grown daughters. I got on very well with them and a happy relationship exists between us. The oldest daughter is to be married soon and she has chosen her uncle (her father's brother) to give her away. She has always been very fond of this uncle and I must admit, he has been good to her. However, I can't help feeling hurt over this and think that as her legal stepfather, I should be given this honor. Will you please give me your opinion.

Answer: I don't think you should feel hurt because she has chosen her uncle, whom she has loved all her life, instead of you who after all have been her stepfather for only a year.

A Woman's Use of "Sir"

Dear Mrs. Post: Is the word "Sir" strictly used by men alone? What I mean is, it is proper when speaking to an older man, for a woman to call him "Sir?"

Answer: It is proper for a woman to call an elderly or eminent gentleman, "Sir."

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her leaflet E-19, "Mistakes Made In the Name of Etiquette," send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EE, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Summer TheatresDrama At Woodstock

A play reported to be the dramatic sensation of two continents opened Tuesday night at the Woodstock Playhouse with Jane Lloyd Jones, Gayer Glaeser and George Bartenieff taking the lead roles. It is EPITAPH FOR GEORGE DILLON by John Osborne and Anthony Creighton.

The plot revolves around a would-be actor who turns playwright, takes up residence with a run-of-the-mill family and manages to finally drown himself in his own schemes. Appearing as the actor is Bartenieff who studied at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art and the Guildhall School of Music and Drama in London.

The characterizations by the members of the cast were very good although, in my opinion, the play moves very slowly and doesn't pick up until the end of Act Two. Gayer Glaeser proves her versatility as a character actress in the portrayal of the mother, Mrs. Elliot. Jane Lloyd Jones, as the aunt, the only person who can see through Dillon's make-up, does an admirable job, while Nancy Jones Henry, as Josie, the rock 'n' roll daughter in the family, also turns in a laudable performance.

Lisa Kolb appears as the other daughter and Jerry Weiss takes the role of the father. Others appearing in the play are John Workman and Herman O. Arbet.

We are eagerly looking forward to next week's production, PICTURES IN THE HALLWAY by Sean O'Casey. This vehicle will enable the members of the cast to revert to the sort of presentation which has brought them a great deal of recognition as Polari Players.

According to the program notes, PICTURES IN THE HALLWAY is the second of six autobiographical novels written by Mr. O'Casey with theatrical adaptation by Paul Shyre.

The play is given in two acts with a setting in Dublin and a host of characters ranging from doctors, revolutionaries and ministers to lay people—a total of 19 characters—all played by six actors.

The play promises to be humorous, touching and exciting. Mr. O'Casey is world famous for his piercing commentary, wit and sensitivity.

The versatility of the resident company at Woodstock Playhouse should make opening night next week very interesting.

Other plays to be offered this season at Woodstock will be SUNRISE AT CAMPOBELLO which opens August 2; LOOK HOMEWARD ANGEL, opening date August 9; DARK AT THE TOP OF THE STAIRS, opening night set for August 16; THE WORLD OF SHOLOM ALEICHEM, August 23; and TWO FOR THE SEESAW, August 30.

Artistic director is Arnold Tager with Dan Butt as designer and M. Edgar Rosenblum as executive director.

Ruth MillettCountry Kin Will Welcome City Cousins — If Invited

Once again it's open season on country cousins — the time of year when city dwellers descend by the carload on friends and relatives who live in the country because it is such an inexpensive way (inexpensive for the visitors) to spend a weekend or a vacation.

Every year about this time I start getting wailing notes from country cousins who are fed to the teeth with playing unpaid hosts to city dwellers who largely ignore them the rest of the year.

"Why is it," they ask, "that cousin Sue doesn't think it would be a bit of trouble for us to board and baby-sit her eight-year-old for the summer?"

"Why do carloads of unexpected guests from the city always manage to arrive at hour or so before mealtime and think that feeding six extra persons is a snap if they just say charmingly that they want to take 'pot luck'?"

"Why do distant relatives who wouldn't think of inviting my family for a week of city living in the wintertime feel free to invite themselves for a week of country living in the summer?"

"Why do so many city folks think that because a country dweller has a garden it doesn't cost anything to board half a dozen extra persons for a week?"

"Why would a family who would be amazed to see a carload of country folks arrive at their city home unannounced think that they'll be welcome if they arrive in the country as uninvited guests?"

I can answer the whys — but I don't blame the country cousins for asking such questions. Nor can I blame them for resenting having their summers made hectic by a series of free loaders.

Having guests is just as much responsibility and necessitates just as much work in the country as in the city.

The only course I can suggest for country cousins fed up with dispensing unreturned hospitality all summer long is to arrive unannounced for a visit in the city homes of those who have been their uninvited guests. That ought to fix them.

Runaway Truck, At 85-Hour Speed Misses Children

NEDROW, N. Y. (AP)—A runaway tractor-trailer truck, its brakes and horn gone, weaved downhill at 85 miles an hour through rush-hour traffic Tuesday night.

"Thank God, I didn't hit those children crossing the street or any other car," driver Samuel Aruck, 26, of Syracuse, breathed after the truck coasted to a stop at the bottom of a hill after the four-mile run.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Worden spotted the huge truck, loaded with 10 tons of scrap steel, on the southern outskirts of this Syracuse suburb and raced ahead, siren roaring.

Cars skirted to the curb as Worden and the truck thundered into busy South Salina Street. The truck narrowly missed a bus unloading passengers and several pedestrians.

Aruck had stopped to fix a flat tire on Route 11 two miles south of the village. When he knocked away the blocks from the wheels, the truck began rolling downhill.

The motor failed to catch. There was no air pressure to operate the brakes or horn.

Post Supports Rockefeller as GOP Candidate

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Post spoke out today for the nomination of Gov. Rockefeller as the Republican candidate for president.

"His candidacy would receive a full, sympathetic hearing from millions of uncommitted voters in crucial areas," declared the independent daily.

In a front-page editorial by Publisher Dorothy Schiff and Editor James A. Wechsler, the Post conceded that all signs point to the nomination of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"Yet there must be many responsible, enlightened Republicans praying for the sort of upheaval that nominated Wendell Willkie in 1940," added the Post. "We have no doubt that large multitudes of unaffiliated voters share their emotions."

The Post, which had plumped for an Adlai Stevenson-Sen. John F. Kennedy ticket for the Democrats, indicated deep dissatisfaction with the ticket of Kennedy and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson that emerged.

The Post said voters who follow no party line will not easily accept Nixon merely because they are dismayed over Johnson.

"In short," the paper continued, "the only event that might clearly break the psychological stalemate would be a successful Rockefeller rebellion—and his acceptance of the vice presidential nomination would not be regarded as such an event."

"If Rockefeller is doomed to the same fate as Stevenson, we shall listen long and intently before rallying to any banner. We commend this course, frustrating and unsatisfactory as it may seem, to all within the range of our voice. For it is a long time between now and November."

"To Bowdlerize" is to eliminate passages considered indelicate in literary compositions. It derives from Dr. Thomas Bowdler's "family" edition of Shakespeare in 1818.

Lots of Glitter Included in Fall Fashion Preview

NEW YORK (AP)—Another day of viewing vast collections of glitter gowns, and American fashion writers might start showing up in sunglasses.

It would be a sensible precaution at that. The climax of nearly every New York designer's collection shown the fashion press so far this week sparkled with blinding brilliance.

What makes it an occupational hazard worth the risk is that the fall clothes are worth blinking at. Ingenuity, good taste and glitter seem to have been lavished in equal proportions.

Cecil Chapman is a case in point. Her dresses at Tuesday afternoon's showing were all that knowledgeable women have come to expect from her: exquisitely wrought creations that dress up a woman to meet the big events in her life, or simply to stagger the stage line.

Her afternoon and evening clothes made use of the lowered waistline, puffed, floating back panels, hip bands for an easy, lowered, elegantly feminine look.

The 1960 "Venus dress" had more than one touch of refined seduction in its darts and folds strategically placed in a long piece of fabric draped around the body. Her "phantom" silhouette reached its height in a black evening dress of wide-flaring tiers of shadow lace. And her colors, in tropical orchid shades from greenish brown to crimson, were exotically adaptable.

But it was her glitter gowns that got greatest applause. With Miss Chapman all that glitters is not gold. It's more likely to be silver, which she prefers, or silver and crystal bugle beads.

Hollywood News, Views

By PATRICK MCNULTY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The guy who coined the phrase "Hollywood dumb blonde" didn't know his proboscis from a peroxide bottle. In the brains department the fair-haired gals, from Jean Harlow to Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield, run a close second to the bald-headed guys with big cigars.

Stella Stevens is the latest example. There's gold under Stella's golden tresses, pardner. The little lady has turned film producer.

While others were twiddling their unemployment checks during the recent actors' strike, Stella formed a company and made a movie.

"It's a documentary, a day in the life of Beverly Hills," says Stella in the dulcet tones of what remains of a soft Southern accent. "Beverly Hills, the strip tease."

queen?" asked her interviewer, a chap of obvious plebeian tastes.

"No, silly," said Stella, fire showing in her blue eyes. "It's a story of what happens during one day in Beverly Hills, the city. You know, where the movie stars live."

"Sort of a travelogue?" asked the interviewer, trying to show a touch of class.

"No," said Stella, louder. "It's an hour-long feature in color and Cinemascope and we may get a film festival prize, it's that good."

Stella's chief claim to Hollywood fame has been a few bit and TV parts and a fat role as Appassionata von Climax in the movie "L'il Abner." So producing a movie was quite a switch.

"My dressmaker, Rudy Gunnerman, put up the money," Stella said. "And Dan O'Herlihy (brother of actor Mike O'Herlihy) directed and narrated."

Woodstock Pageant Is Again Planned By Jaycees in 1961

The Woodstock Jaycees will again sponsor a Miss Woodstock Pageant as part of the official Miss America contest in 1961, it was decided at the July meeting of the village Jaycees.

The vote to continue the Woodstock pageant was unanimous among a membership that was highly pleased and enthusiastic over the showing of its 1960 entry, Miss Sandra Andrade, who won a $150 Most Talented non-Finalist award in the state competition in Kingston.

Joseph Wolman in Saturday Appearance at the Maverick

A program of works by the great masters — Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, Schumann and Chopin — will be presented by the celebrated pianist, Joseph Wolman, in the second Saturday Night Recital of the season on July 23, at 8:30 p. m., at the Maverick Concert Hall in Woodstock.

Joseph Wolman has won a considerable reputation as concert artist, teacher and lecturer. A native of Brooklyn, N. Y., he studied on a Fellowship with Carl Friedberg at Juilliard School of Music. He has toured extensively as soloist and chamber music pianist throughout the U. S. and abroad. His sensitive playing, combined with technical mastery, has won enthusiastic acclaim from audiences in every part of the world. He has appeared in collaboration with such outstanding soloists as Toscha Seidel, Frances Alda, Maria Kurenko, William Kroll, Carroll Glenn and Joan Field.

In his home base of Brooklyn, Wolman is Musical Director of the Chamber Music Associates. This organization, with headquarters at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, is devoted to bringing together string players and pianists for group playing. Wolman also gives music courses at Brooklyn College.

In a review of a recent Wolman concert at Carnegie Recital Hall, the New York Times spoke thus of his playing of a Beethoven sonata: "It is rare . . . that a pianist gives the impression of having fully grasped the composer's thought and emotion. Hearing Mr. Wolman play it, one felt this was the way Beethoven intended it to sound."

The program Saturday night will include "Three Preludes and Fugues" by Bach; "Sonata in A Flat Major, Op. 110" by Beethoven; "Pavilion, Op. 2" by Schumann; four "Intermezzi" and a "Capriccio" by Brahms; and "Fantasy in F Minor, Op. 49" by Chopin.

Artists Group's Origin as Told By Le Gallienne

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles covering the founding and development of the Woodstock Artists Association.)

In our Woodstock Library is a small book written by Richard Le Gallienne which is entitled, "Woodstock," published in 1923. One hundred copies were bound in boards and signed by Le Gallienne and certain other artists. The history of the WAA is pointed up at this time, as a new drive for members is under way. The purpose is to acquaint new members with the origin and history of the WAA since its organization in 1919. Then it was called the Woodstock Art Association. When the minor change was made, who knows? Alf Evers, noted Woodstock writer and historian, has many times re-told the story of the origin of art, music, poetry, writing and the several crafts in Woodstock and the story never seems to age. There are always those who have not yet heard of the romantic beginning of what we now know as Woodstock.

Held Copyright

Since the copyright of the book, "Woodstock," belongs to the Woodstock Art Association, it is presumed there is no violation in quoting an excerpt directly from Le Gallienne's book: "A long cherished dream of Woodstock artists has been a gallery where they could exhibit their work; first for their own benefit as artists, in that they would be able to see what their conferees were doing and compare notes; and next that their various achievements might be on record for the public at large. "With this in view, Andrew Dasburg, John F. Carlson, Henry Lee McFee, Frank Chase and Carl Eric Lindin organized the Woodstock Realty Company as a stock company—the stock of which is owned exclusively by Woodstock artists and local sympathizers—which built and leased the charming building row facing the village green to the Woodstock Art Association, the various expenses of which are at present met by the renting of wall-spaces; the ultimate intention being that the artists shall be able to exhibit there free of charge.

"Captain Jenkinson, well-known for his metal work; Miss Wardwell and others cooperated generally with the founders in this scheme and Murrell Fisher, the writer, was the first curator; being followed by Miss Marinebel Smith."

Hartland Trio Excels Despite Crisis of Violin

The Hartland Trio's concert at the Maverick last Sunday was marred by the loss of a violin. Paul Winter, violinist of the trio, discovered the absence of his instrument at the last moment and suddenly realized that he had left it at a dinner between Woodstock and New York.

The concert was delayed while Winter arranged to borrow a local violin, and the suspense regarding his own Guarnerius was subsequently resolved with a report that it was safe and in good hands. It is a measure of Winter's skill that he gave no sign that the violin thrust into his hands was not his own. The playing was assured, the pitch good and the tone generally satisfactory.

During the delay, the trio's pianist, Frederic Kurzeil, amused the audience by playing some Schubert waltzes and two preludes by Gershwin. He played musically, displaying a sonful tone and flexing phrasing; promising qualities for chamber music.

Then the group plunged into Haydn's G Major Trio, playing at once with professional authority. The reading was convinced and enthusiastic, the instrumental blend first rate, the phrasing sound. This is a bread and butter piece, well made of attractive material, but it lacks the astonishing turns one can expect from Haydn. The performance fit the piece, avoiding that frigid purity and smallness which often passes for the correct classic style.

The Dvorak Dumky Trio, Op. 90, followed. It is an unusual trio, somewhat under the heel of Beethoven and Brahms, yet abounding with original ideas. The form is especially strange, full of starts and stops, abrupt mood changes, portentous introductions and lyrical interludes. The fast sections are short or frequently interrupted, and their dancelike, scherzando character is often vulgar. The main substance of the piece is slow and lyrical and it is this excess of slow tempo combined with the absence of a sustained stretch of dynamic, quick music which eventually produces a mild lethargy. Perhaps the narrow range of mood is also responsible. Still it is the slow music that is the glory of the piece. The splendid improvisatory opening introduction, the violin and cello duet and hymnlike music of the second movement, these are among the ravishments of this rich work.

Cellist Excels

The virtues of the piece were well displayed by the trio and Maurice Bialkin, the cellist, was given an ample role in which to persuade us of his excellence. The Haydn hardly gave him a chance.

On the whole, the Beethoven Archduke Trio turned out less well. Too often Kurzeil's pianistic facility was inadequate, and occasionally his sense of style seemed questionable. For example, his rhapsodic interpretation of the major themes of the first movement focused undue attention on the local event and obscured the grand architectural scheme. The Archduke is a vast form composed of huge building blocks—idiosyncratic emphasis, though arresting for the moment, must not be allowed to deflect the progress of that form. Elsewhere, Kurzeil could not manage the cascade of trills and figurations. In the last movement his basses were often painfully wrong and his inability to conquer the notes displaced the rhythm just enough to distort the powerful kinetic impulse of the music. A playful, joyous release is intended—not a labored, heavy-handed statement.

These serious blemishes were balanced by some of the finest playing of the afternoon—the slow movement of the Beethoven. Here the players attained a high degree of absorption and selflessness. The distilled intensity of the music came through as if without intermediaries, as if the sound were just there, existing, not being played by players. It was this kind of inspired playing that made the afternoon—YEHUDI WYNER.

Instructor Art Seen at Albany Institute Show

Now on view in the West Gallery of the Albany Institute of History and Art is an exhibition of paintings by art instructors connected with the Institute. This exhibit is open to the public and will run through July 24.

He has won many awards and his paintings are in many private collections, including that of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the Library of Congress.

Betty Warren is a well-known portrait artist and art teacher. She has taught portrait painting for many years in Albany and Florida. Many famous people have been her subjects, including Mrs. Charles Ringling and John Ringling North, whose portraits are included in the exhibition now at the Institute.

Christ's Humiliation Subject of Sermon at Woodstock Reformed

"The Humiliation of Christ" is the sermon theme for the Rev. Wayne C. Olson on Sunday at the Woodstock Reformed Church. It is based on the Creedal statements: "who suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead and buried; He descended into hell." Arrangements have been made to broadcast every worship service through Aug. 28 over Station WGHQ.

The Christian Endeavor Society will join that of the Old Dutch Church in Kingston for a picnic and outdoor Vesper service at Haussler's Grove in Mt. Marion Sunday, July 24, beginning at 3 p. m.

Schimmerling's Views on Travel

It is gratifying to observe in this super-commercial era of ours some commercial firms emphasize the educational issue in their curricula of activities.

The Pan-American World Airways, for example, has an educational department, headed by George Gardner who does a remarkable job in the field of education. Among other things, he has published "Adventures in Education," a booklet that describes and explains what he calls "educational traveling."

According to his definition, "educational travel" is a carefully planned program of travel that purposely creates opportunities for you to study first hand the peoples and customs of other countries." Then he lists and explains the possibilities and the names of colleges, universities and other educational institutions which in cooperation with Pan-American arrange such educational travel programs. There is, for example, Dr. Harold Tarbell of Lafayette College, Easton, Pa., who by now has arrived at his 10th "Round the World Educational Tour;" there is the "Flying Carpet" of the Students' International Travel Association; the "Russian Students Exchange" of Brigham Young University; the "Discovery Tour;" the "Student Olympic Tour;" and a "Music and Drama Tour," all of them arranged by the University Travel Company at Cambridge, Mass.; there is the "Program in Comparative Education" of the Wayne State University of Detroit; the "Analysis of Programs and Problems in Physical and Health Education" of the Globe Star Travel Service in New York City; the "Iowa Music Study Tour" of the College City Travel Service in Northfield, Minn.

that leads you to Vienna, Venice, Paris, Bayreuth, Salzburg; there are tours that include summer sessions at the universities in Madrid, Vienna, Florence; there is a French, German and Spanish Study Tour and many more.

Pan-American also lists an interesting series of books such as a Handbook of International Study, the Study Abroad, Teaching Abroad and many more instructive publications that you can purchase for a fraction of what you pay for a bottle of whiskey. Pan American encourages the organizing of educational tours by having published a handbook by Dr. Herbert Park Beck of the School of Education City College, New York. This booklet is presented to the public "in the interest of educational travel."

My father used to say, "beware of bargains"; but this is a bargain of which you don't have to beware. The New Horizons, published by Pan American, is a quality edition. Quality comes before quantity and the quality of the book is likewise encouraging. You will find in it facts about 92 countries: flora, fauna, music, art, medical facilities, language, religion, currency, sports, communications, etc. I believe this book belongs to every decent home library. Also read the interesting "Dining Out in Any Language" by Myra Waldo, a book prepared with the assistance of Pan American World Airways. — H. A. SCHIMMERLING.

Rosendale Treasures Sought For Library Fair

Items for which residents may have no use, may turn out to be someone else's treasure if they are given to the Rosendale Library Fair to be held Saturday, Aug. 6, from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. on the library grounds.

Specializing in used but not abused items the rummage booth will hold clothing, knick-knacks and bric-a-brac which area people will give.

Mrs. Donald Hasenflue, chairman, assisted by her committee, the Mmes. Kenneth Bordenstein of Bloomington, Joel Woolsey and Robert Demarest of Tillson, Huyler Van Wageningen of High Falls Park and Charles George of Washington Park, Rosendale, are preparing to sort articles and prepare them for the big day.

Anyone interested in contributing may contact any of the above or bring the articles to the library Mondays, Wednesdays or Fridays from 2 to 4 or from 7 to 9 p. m. Joseph O'Connor, electrical contractor, is permitting the use of his store for storage prior to the fair.

Puts Town on Map

MOUNTAINSIDE, N. J. (AP) — Paul Marzell, 15, has put this borough square on the map. To do it he used six large boards and 80 pounds of plaster. His model, scaled three feet to the mile, includes homes, lawns, trees and utility poles in miniature. It took the high school student six weeks. He used a map, shinned up trees to get the lay of the land, and bicycled through the Borough's four square miles to count the houses. He's thinking of becoming a real estate man like his father.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The biggest field in Professional Golfers Assn. history had a free ride coming today, a final practice round before the chips go down in the 42nd championship.

The free stroll gives the group of champions, ex-champions and hopefuls one last chance to find the answers to a flock of questions the revamped 7,165-yard par-70 Firestone Country Club course will ask in the $60,000 fourth 72-hole marathon starting Thursday and ending Sunday.

Frisco Rookie 1-Hits Phils; Yank Homers Nip Tribe, 13-11

Marichal Is First In NL Long History To Debut So Well

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

Juan Marichal, 21, a rookie from the Dominican Republic, has become the first National League pitcher in modern days to pitch a one-hitter in his first big league start.

The 5-10 right-hander who was the strikeout king of the Pacific Coast League until he was recalled from Tacoma with an 11-5 record, had a perfect game for 6 1/3 innings Tuesday night for San Francisco. An error by Eddie Bressoud let the Phils' Tony Taylor reach base.

Fans Twelve

Marichal lost his no-hit bid when pinch hitter Clay Darbympole singled with two out in the eighth. The newcomer struck out 12, only three short of the record that the Dodgers' Karl Spooner set in his first start in 1954. The Giants won the game 2-0.

No other National League pitcher in modern days, since 1900, has thrown a one-hitter in his first start. Charles Jones of Cincinnati pitched a no-hitter in his major league debut in 1884. Two American League pitchers have broken in with one-hitters, Addie Joss of Cleveland and Mike Fournies of Washington.

Milwaukee sliced Pittsburgh's league lead to 1½ games by winning its sixth straight on a 9-5 decision over St. Louis, while Pittsburgh was losing to Los Angeles 5-4. Cincinnati whipped Chicago 4-1 behind Jim O'Toole in the other game.

May Be A Tonic

Marichal's performance could be a tonic to the floundering Giants who have dropped into the second division. Mixing a change-up with curves and fast balls, he moved down the first 19 Phils.

After Johnny Callison flied out, Marichal pitched and then issued his only walk to Pancho Herrera before Willie Mays pulled down Joe Morgan's long fly, ending the inning.

Darbympole, batting for catcher Cal Neeman with two out in the eighth, hit Marichal's first pitch sharply to center field. The rookie wasn't bothered. He got the next man to end the eighth and retired the side in order in the ninth.

Norm Larker's two-run home run in the seventh gave Los Angeles a come-from-behind victory over the Pirates who led 4-0 going to the last of the sixth. Larker also had two singles, boosting his league-leading batting average to .359.

Blow Lead

Milwaukee blew a three-run lead but took advantage of the shaky Cardinal defense to edge closer to the Pirates. Hank Aaron's 25th homer in the eighth was the clincher for relief man Ron Piche. Curt Flood, Stan Musial and Julian Javier homered for the Cards.

Frank Robinson hit two home runs in Cincinnati's victory over the Cubs, who have scored a total of only three runs in five games since the All-Star break.

Not Giving Up

It is apparent the Continental League sponsors aren't going to give up without a fight and are optimistic despite the fact the National League voted for only a two-team expansion and isn't thinking in terms of a new league.

Hank Greenberg of the Chicago White Sox, a member of the American League's three-man Expansion Committee, touched on one problem which might determine the extent of expansion — manpower. He is convinced there aren't enough big league prospects to stock four new teams, let alone a new league.

The cities which are considered ripe prospects in case of limited expansion are New York, Houston, Toronto, and Minneapolis-St. Paul. Of these, New York seems reasonably certain to land a franchise, particularly as blueprints for a new stadium call for completion of the park in 1962. The club probably would be able to play either in Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds in the meantime.

Los Angeles also is a prospect for an American League entry after the Dodgers have their own park in Chavez Ravine. Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers is known to favor the idea. The Chavez Ravine park isn't expected to be ready before 1962, however.

So availability of parks could be a factor as to when expansion goes into effect.

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Dick Brubaker, former end with the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League, joined the Buffalo Bills of the new American Football League today.

23 Rookies at Packers Camp

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers launch training for their 41st professional football campaign Thursday with 23 rookies due to check in with Coach Vince Lombardi and his aides.

Lombardi, who piloted the Packers to their best National Football League record in 15 years in his rookie year at the helm in 1959, was optimistic but guardedly cautious.

"We'll have a better team than last year, but it's difficult to say how well we'll do," he said. "We caught a few teams by surprise last season and they'll be laying for us this fall. And it looks as if most of the other clubs have improved, too."

The Packers wound up last year with a respectable 7-5 record.

Expansion Problems Still Big

NEW YORK (AP)—How, when and where are the big problems facing the major baseball leagues today, now that expansion is a virtual certainty.

The National League wants each circuit to take in two new clubs. The American favors only one additional club. Branch Rickey wants eight new clubs in the form of a third league, the Continental.

Rickey, president of the embryo Continental, said he was surprised that any member of the National League favors internal expansion, meaning enlargement instead of acceptance of a new league.

He pointed out the only deterrent to the Continental League is what he termed the unreasonable indemnity demands of the American Assn. and the International League.

Rickey has agreed to meet with committees of the two major leagues to discuss the whole expansion issue. Donald Grant, president of the New York club of the Continental League, said he sees the National League action as "an opening wedge in the ultimate solution, at least 24 big league teams."

Paul Natale Hurls No-Hitter As 35 Club Stops Moose, 11-0

McAndrew Gives 1-Hit in Hurling Legion to 8-1 Win

Pitching no-hitters is getting to be a habit in the Kingston Babe Ruth League. Last night Paul Natale did the trick as the 35 Club turned back the Moose, 11-0, at the Stadium.

At Loughran Park, Lonnie McAndrew allowed only a third-inning single to Dan Ryan as the American Legion shellacked the Vols. 8-1. Ryan's hit came in the third inning and not only spoiled the no-hitter but the shutout as well.

The 35 Club clinched the verdict over the Moose with a six-run surge in the third inning. Three hits, a walk and two errors turned the trick.

Natale was in trouble in the first inning when he loaded the bases with two outs on a pair of walks and a hit batter. However, he recorded the third out via a whiff. A double play got him out of trouble in the second but after that, the strong-armed righty was in complete command.

Natale walked four and fanned eight to get the decision over loser Wayne Platt.

Herb Shultz blasted a 325-foot home run and two singles as the Legion easily dropped the Vols. The winners tallied five runs in the first inning to stay comfortably ahead the rest of the evening.

McAndrew was a trifle wild, walking six batters but he fanned 16 in a great performance. Bruce Terwilliger absorbed the loss.

A full card is scheduled tonight. Rotary will meet Kiwanis at 6 and Vols will play the VFW at 8:30 in Stadium attractions and the Legion and KPA will clash at Loughran Park at 6 p. m.

Finish Photo

NEW YORK (NEA) — Two young ex-advertising executives dreamed up a new way of beating the races.

Have you ever thought of tucking in your wallet, alongside snapshots of the wife and children, a photograph of the winning horse you bet on crossing the finish line?

Perry Belmont Frank and George Comptois did. They put the service in action at Belmont Park, offering good looking, pocket-size photos in an attractive folder with the race number, date and track insignia on either side of the picture. They provide an envelope.

The originators of the idea are continuing the service.

If it clicks at Aqueduct they intend to make it available at other tracks.

PHILADELPHIA — (NEA) — Jay Hanna Dean gets bigger and dizzier every year—whacky like an Einstein.

No one can say more, more forcibly, in fewer words than Dizzy Dean. "Lottsa guys who don't say ain't ain't eatin'" for example.

Dean, the most illustrious Cardinal of 25 years ago, talks baseball the same way. "The Giants look to me like a lot of guys who want to go home in the seventh inning," for instance.

Dean, who has broadcast and telecast major league games since bursitis brought his spectacular pitching career to an end, picked the Giants to win the National League pennant in the spring, but now sees the Pirates as the counterparts of the St. Louis Gashouse Gang of 1934, with whom Ol' Diz was at his rollicking best.

"Pittsburgh won 17 games in late innings, coming from behind in most of them, during the first half of the season," pointed out Dean, prior to telecasting the CBS Game-of-the-Week from Connie Mack Stadium. "Milwaukee lost 18 the same way, which accounts for the difference between them and this season."

"I know it's tripe (he meant tripe), but the Pirates are hungry like the Cardinals of 1934. They travel in packs like wolves. There is no temperment. This is a real unit with no stickout swellhead. They help each other."

"Only two Pirates have been on a pennant winner before. Don Hoak got in one World Series with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Gino Cimoli got in one World Series game with the same club, but not to bat."

There's Mickey Vernon, the coach, who spent 19 years in the American League without even getting a smell of World Series swag. He joined the Indians after they won in 1948 and had been sentenced back to Washington when Cleveland won again in '54.

"What does this almost entire lack of World Series experience mean? It means that this run for the jackpot is a glorious adventure for the Pirates and they enjoy putting everything they have into it. They have more bounce than the lively ball. No one misses the bus here."

Dean now makes his home in Phoenix, so he saw a great deal of the Giants in spring training.

"Never saw such power," he recalled, "the Willies—Mays, McCovey and Kirkland—and Orlando Cepeda and Felipe Alou. And when the season started, San Francisco got complete center and shutouts from Sam Jones, Jack Sanford, Mike McCormick, Johnny Antonelli and Billy O'Dell. I thought the Giants were a kick in the pants."

"I don't know what happened."

"All I know is what I heard when I played golf at Paradise Valley in Phoenix the day after Horace Stoneham had been there. Bill Rigley used seven pitchers getting beat something like 14-to-6, brought in Antonelli for the last couple of innings when the Giants were a half dozen or so runs behind. Stoneham pointed to Tom Sheehan the next day and said, 'You're it.'"

"Maybe nobody never taught Horace Stoneham it ain't polite to point," philosophized Dizzy Dean, "especially at a nice old guy like Tom Sheehan in a fix like that."

Red China Opens Door to Pair to Visit Inmates

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China

A consulate spokesman said the permission was given to Judge William C. Walsh of Cumberland, Md., and Mary V. Downey of New Britain, Conn.

Five Americans are known to be imprisoned in Communist China. In addition to Downey and Bishop Walsh, they are Richard G. Y., American businessmen serving terms of 15 years and life on similar charges.

Sinatra Denies Hitting Parking Lot Attendant

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The city attorney's office says it will decide today if any charges will be filed against Frank Sinatra as the aftermath of a row with a parking lot attendant.

Sinatra denied at a hearing Tuesday that he had pushed E. Ward E. Moran, 21, at a Hollywood night club last May 14. Moran told a previous hearing held by the city attorney that Sinatra shoved him, then called on an acquaintance, John Hopkins, for help.

Hopkins, Moran said, hit him five or six times with his fists. Sinatra said he had stepped off a curb when a car driven by another attendant "screached to a stop six inches from me."

"I was shaken," the singer related, "and I started to berate the driver when Moran came up. He came towards me and I put up my hands to keep him away, but I didn't shove him."

ELVEN NAVY MEN DIE IN COLLISION AT SEA — This aerial view shows the damaged bow of the U. S. destroyer Collett after it collided with the destroyer Ammen in a heavy fog off the Southern California coast, killing 11 men and injuring eight others. 11 Navy Men Perish As Destroyers Hit LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Patrick Medeiros, bow lookout aboard the freshly refitted destroyer Collett, peered anxiously into fog as thick as cotton candy. His ship seemed to be gliding blindly through a cloud.

Suddenly Medeiros screamed into his microphone: "Ship dead ahead!"

An instant later the newly painted bow of the Collett smashed into the destroyer Ammen, a kamikaze-scarred veteran on its way to the boneyard.

20 Others Hurt
Then Medeiros, 19, of Honolulu, heard the awesome sounds of disaster at sea—frantic shouts, the clanging of bells, death screams, the hiss of steam, and the rip and tear of steel.

Medeiros escaped with a bruised thigh, but 11 other Navy men died in the collision Tuesday. At least 20 others were hurt, but only six were hospitalized.

The Ammen, heading for San Diego and deactivation, had just unloaded her explosives at nearby Seal Beach. Otherwise both ships could have been blown out of the water.

The 376-foot Collett left her bow anchor embedded in the Ammen's twisted superstructure and carried off a crushed Ammen seaman in the fan-like wreckage of her own bow.

When the bow lookout first yelled, the Collett's skipper, Cmdr. A.T. Ford of St. Petersburg, Fla., shouted from the bridge: "All engines back full. Right full rudder."

Warning Too Late
Too late. The Collett, apparently in a turn, struck the Ammen's port side below the waterline just astern of amidships, then slid up and smashed into the superstructure. Those killed were all aboard the Ammen and had been working in two offices above deck.

"Stop engines," ordered Cmdr. Zaven Mukhalian, captain of the Ammen.

The damage control party quickly went below and secured watertight doors. The Ammen looked sadder than when a Japanese suicide plane crashed into her during the Battle of Okinawa in 1945. She listed 11 degrees to port but did not sink.

"Thank God we unloaded the ammunition," said Mukhalian, sailing the Ammen on her last voyage to a moth-ball berth.

After the crash the Collett, with 25 feet of her bow bent back like a stubbed toenail, lay off in the fog and asked the listing Ammen if it needed assistance.

Fishkill Student Killed in Crash

A 20-year-old Manhattan College student who resides in Fishkill was instantly killed at 12:45 a. m. today when a station wagon he was driving went out of control and crashed into two trees off Route 9 south of Fishkill.

State Police identified the victim as Newton John Erickson, of Florence Avenue, Fishkill.

Troopers said Erickson was driving a station wagon owned by his mother, Mrs. Margaret Provost, Fishkill, north on Route 9 when about one half mile south of Fishkill the vehicle veered off the shoulder of the highway, smashed into a tree and then veered across the highway and glanced off another tree.

Erickson was pronounced dead at the scene.

Dutchess County Medical Examiner Dr. Chester Golding went to the scene to investigate. Preliminary reports indicated the youth died of a fractured skull and lacerations of the brain. The body was taken to the Auchmoody Funeral Home, Fishkill.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 9:30 a. m. from St. Mary's Church auditorium, Fishkill, and thence to St. Mary's Church where a Mass will be said at 10 a. m. Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. Thursday and Friday.

34 Belgians Die In Congo Crash

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—A Belgian transport plane crashed in the Congo today, killing 34 Belgian soldiers and seriously injuring seven, the government announced.

The plane, a C119 Flying Boxcar, hit a volcanic peak near Goma, north of Lake Kivu.

The crash scene is in the eastern Congo, a scene of violence against whites early in the uprising of Negro soldiers of the Congo army.

Belgian military sources said the soldiers were members of an airfield defense company. They had left Belgium Sunday night for the Congo.

The detachment, trained for the protection of airfields and similar military installations, was dispatched to the Congo to reinforce Belgian military bases.

Eichmann Gives Reports on Nazi Crimes History

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli prosecutors preparing for the trial of Adolf Eichmann, 34, are being assisted by historians who have compiled the world's most complete library on anti-Semitism and Nazi war crimes.

The ex-Nazi colonel, charged with masterminding the slaughter of six million Jews, is unwittingly contributing to the giant records. Daily Eichmann is called before Bureau 06 for interrogation. This bureau is a special 20-man police team assigned to the case after Eichmann was tracked down in Argentina and brought back to Israel for trial.

At the same time a group of Israeli experts continues to supply a constant flow of Eichmann material to the bureau. These experts on World War II history, with particular reference to the Jewish problems, are working in the office of Yad Vashem. The organization has thousands of original documents on persecution of the Jews and an enormous microfilm laboratory of documents used in the Nuremberg and other war crimes trials.

Dr. Aryeh Kubovy, Yad Vashem's chairman, said further collection of Eichmann material may take five more months, setting back his trial to 1961.
